OWI Officials Say Nation Falls Behind In Output Of Armaments.

'LOSING FIGHT' CITED

Ontario Premier Predicts Attack on Atlantic Coast Very Soon.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A gloomy picture of America's war effort to date was laid before the nation today in a warning by the office of war information that materials are failing to reach the fighting fronts in the time and the volume needed to win.

Reviewing the military and production situation, OWI asserted last night that output of fighting planes, tanks, most types of artillery and naval vessels fell behand schedule in June and expressed doubt that "all of us realize how hard we are going to have to work to win.

"To win a total war we must fight it out totally," OWI said, "and we are not fighting it that hard."

A similar tone was expressed in Australia where war correspondent Norman Stockton of the Melbourne Herald asserted "our allies have got to realize the grim fact that we are still fighting a losing war and that there is no possibility of an offensive from this country until real material aid is forthcoming."

Stockton described Gen. Douglas MacArthur as an "offensive-minded" leader who apparently could not take the offensive because of a lack of material aid.

Simultaneously, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario predicted in a speech at Fergue, Ont., that "we are going to have an attack on the Atlantic coast very soon, and a two-ocean attack in the near future."

And in Seattle, Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.), a member of the naval affairs committee, said in an interview that the Japanese already are at war with Russia and "have sunk several Russian ships in the Pacific" on the ground they were carrying American materials.

OWI cautioned that "we could lose this war," and declared that

FIRST MEETING

City's Investment Board Has Informal Discussion.

Informal discussion marked the first meeting today of the city's investment board created by city council last June.

Members are the mayor, Paul L. Kelley, auditor; Leslie K. Wagner, solicitor; Earl K. Troll, treasurer, and Councilman C. N. Shultz of the second ward.

Auditor Kelley, as custodian of monies and records of the board, presented statements showing amounts available for investments and of requirements for the last half of 1942.

While the sinking fund trustees are empowered to dictate the disposition of municipal bonds, the investment board can ask authority to purchase city issues or government bonds.

Mrs. John Jones knew that a couple of newcomers to the city would welcome a chance to live in her extra room. She rented the room to a couple of young men and raised some extra money for War Bonds. M'GREGOR HITS BACK AT CRITICS

Congressman Defends Voting Record at G.O.P. Rally Held at Park.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket in the 17th district, defended his voting record in congress and answered isolationist charges made by his opponents in a talk last night at a Republican rally in South park. About 200 attended.

Asserting that he had "no apologies to make for my voting record or my activities in congress," McGregor charged that a "group of New Dealers have taken it upon themselves to pick out a few votes of congressmen who refused to be rubber stamps and hold them up as meaning we are isolationists.

"I tried to keep these United States out of war and I have no apology for trying. But now that we are in it, this is a war of liberty or slavery and we have to win it. We also have to watch the money we are spending to see that it gets the most results, for there's not much in winning the war and losing the peace because of bankruptcy."

Referring to the isolationist charges his opponents have made, McGregor said about 125 bills made up the entire national defense program and he voted against only "eight or nine of them."

"I was against these," he said, "because they would give more power to the president. I'll go

Navy Applicants Keep Recruiters Busy During Day

Two Mansfield men signed up for regular navy duty, and several others from the area made application to join navy construction battalions yesterday as a special recruiting staff visited the city to conduct "Navy Recruiting Day."

Chief Petty Officer William G. Cox of the Mansfield navy recruiting station, said today that the special staff, headed by Lieut. Ralph H. Dombey, district naval recruiting officer, left Mansfield yesterday afternoon "with a long list of names of Mansfield men anxious to help in the navy building program."

Cox said that scores of men with skilled trade experience had

SELLS AT $10

Scrap Metal From City Dump To Go to Youngstown.

City Service Director Fred B. Wolff announced today that he has signed a contract with the Kulka Company, Inc., of Youngstown for the sale at $10 a ton of scrap metal salvaged from the city dump on Park avenue east and from other municipal dumping lots.

Under the contract, payments will be made weekly for shipments in 20-ton car cargoes, the purchasing firm agreeing to accept all metal other than tin cans.

None of this salvage, according to Wolff, is suitable for use by the Empire Tin Plate and Steel company or other Mansfield industries.

Federal authorities have notified city officials that efforts are being made to provide a process for salvaging the steel content of tin cans and that a drive for such discarded containers may follow soon.

SHELLS SHIP

Jap Sub Unsuccessful In Attack On Passenger Vessel.

GEN. DOUGLAS M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—(INS)—A Japanese submarine unsuccessfully shelled a passenger ship off the south coast of Australia, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters revealed today.

Neither the exact location of the attack, nor the time it took place, was revealed.

Sub Demands Ship's Captain Before Torpedoing Vessel

(By Associated Press)

For four hours under dark Atlantic skies, a sleek U-boat circled the Maldonado, a Uruguayan merchantman, whose bright lights left no doubt as to its nationality.

Then the U-boat sent a shell crashing into the ship's boiler, ignoring the flood-lit Uruguayan flag. The crew took to the boats and the submarine came alongside.

"I want the captain. If not, I'll shoot," a submarine officer armed with a machinegun shouted. Capt. Mario Giambruno boarded the submarine and some time later a single torpedo tore the ship in two. The submarine submerged with Capt. Giambruno aboard.

The Maldonado's sinking was disclosed when 13 survivors reached Bermuda. Three lifeboats containing 36 crewmen, are missing.

The announcement of this sinking yesterday, along with the disclosure of the destruction of two other merchantmen—a Norwegian and a Panamanian — increased to 418 the Associated Press tally of announced Allied and neutral ship losses in the western Atlantic since Dec. 7.

Germans Claim Eight Convoy Ships Sunk

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—The German high command announced in a special communique today that an American destroyer and seven ships, totalling 49,000 tons, had been sunk from a convoy in the north Atlantic.

The north Atlantic action was described as "a difficult attack on a strongly escorted convoy," the special communique said.

Eight other ships were sunk in mid-Atlantic, in American waters and off the harbors of the West African coast, the communique said. These ships totalled 54,181 tons.

(There has been no confirmation of these reported sinkings from any Allied source.)

"Among the ships sunk (elsewhere than in the north Atlantic) was a large vessel carrying munitions and another ship laden with tanks and aircraft bound for Alexandria," the communique said.

PROBING ARMY BOMBER CRASH

Authorities Told Plane Exploded In Mid-Air.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(INS)—Army authorities today were investigating the crash of a two-motor army bomber which exploded in mid-air about 12 miles east of here yesterday, causing the death of two civilian ferry pilots.

According to an eyewitness of the crash, Herman F. Nickels, an air raid spotter, fire destroyed one of the plane's wings before the explosion.

The ship crashed to earth following the explosion and plowed through a strip of woods and landed in an open field. The wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

INVADE REICH

Jugoslav Guerillas Battle Way Into South Austria.

LONDON —(INS)— Gen. "Draja" Mihailovich's Jugoslav guerrillas have invaded Reich territory with a thrust into southern Austria, the German anti-Nazi secret radio station reported today, according to the Daily Herald.

Deserters from the Austrian army led Mihailovich's men across the border of the Austrian province of Carinthia which is adjacent to the Jugoslav and Italian borders, the Daily Herald report declared.

Fighting has been under way for several days.

The Moscow radio, according to the Daily Telegraph, reported that 30,000 Italians, supported by artillery and warships, had been engaged in battle with Yugoslav irregulars along the Dalmatian coast.

WHITE HOUSE REVEALS MEN DIE IN CHAIR

Announcement Follows Cutting Off of All Outgoing Calls From Prison.

BURGER GETS LIFE

George J. Dasch Sentenced To 30 Years In Prison, Statement Says.

WASHINGTON — (AP) —The White House announced today that six of eight Nazi saboteurs had been executed today, the first going to death by the electric chair at noon.

The two saboteurs spared were Ernest P. Burger, who was given a life prison sentence at hard labor and George John Dasch, sentenced to 30 years at hard labor.

These, a White House statement said, had prison terms granted them rather than death sentences "because of their assistance to the government of the United States in the apprehension and conviction of the others."

The six who paid the death penalty for coming to the United States in Nazi U-boats to burn and blast vital war installations were electrocuted in the District of Columbia jail.

The executions were carried out a month to the day after a military commission began trying them on espionage and sabotage charges. The eight men came equipped with explosives and materials for incendiarism, four landing in Florida and four on Long Island.

The text of the White House announcement:

"The president completed his review of the findings and sentences of the military commission appointed by him on July 2, 1942 which tried the eight Nazi saboteurs.

"The president approved the judgment of the military commission that all of the prisonrs were

Red Demolition Squads Wait as Nazis Advance

Germans Break Through Defenses at Armavir, Close In on Petroleum Fields From Two Sides and Threaten to Trap Soviets.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(INS)—In an effort to outflank the fast-moving German armies driving toward the Maikop oil fields, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko today launched a counter-offensive from Voronezh, vital city on the upper Don river held by the Soviets in the face of ceaseless Nazi attacks.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—Red army demolition squads stood ready today to blow up the great Maikop oil fields of the Caucasus to prevent them from falling into the hands of German forces which have broken Russian defenses at Armavir and are closing in upon Maikop from two sides.

The German break-through at Armavir, city of 80,000 and vital rail and pipeline junction on the Kuban river, threw the Russian defenders back upon the foothills of the Caucasus mountains and carried the Germans to within 60 miles of Maikop whose wells supply a great bulk of the Red air force's high-test aviation fuel.

(The German high command reported the capture of Armavir and a pounding drive on across the Laba river which is a tributary of the Kuban to capture the town of Kurgannaya which is only 30 miles east of Maikop and midway between the oil fields and Armavir.)

Front-line advices reaching Moscow made it clear that the Red army under Marshal Semyon Timoshenko was prepared to lay waste to the Maikop fields at the enemy's approach.

The Maikop fields, together with those of Grozny, have produced 10 per cent of the Soviet Union's oil.

The swift 100-mile southward drive of the German armored forces down to Armavir from the Byelo-Glina sector, accompanied by a steady advance of another column striking down upon Krasnodar farther to the west near the Sea of Azov coast threatened to trap large Russian forces still fighting around Kushchevka.

Stiffening Russian resistance was said officially, however, to have stemmed at least for the time-being the Germans' big pincer assault on Stalingrad, industrial metropolis on the Volga.

Russian tanks and artillery threw back successive German attempts to storm across the Don in the Kletskaya sector about 70 miles northwest of Stalingrad and Red army lines were reported holding somewhere north of Kotelnikov to the south.

Fierce battles were said to be under way around Armavir with the Germans throwing masses of infantry, armored units, dive bombers and sub-machine gun infantry into the attempt to storm Maikop.

HEAVIEST: Allied Planes Rip Jap Airbase With Ton Bombs

(By International News Service)

GEN. DOUGLAS M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—The heaviest bombing raid of the war in the southwest Pacific was announced today in an Allied communique disclosing that a squadron of big long-range bombers attacked the Japanese airport at Rabaul on New Britain island with several one-ton bombs.

Fifteen tons of bombs were loosed on the Vunakanau airdrome, demolishing hangars and blasting great pits in the runways.

Seven of 20 Japanese Zeros were shot down as they attempted to intercept the Allied raiders. One Allied plane was lost.

The foray against Rabaul followed day and night raids on enemy bases at Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea by strong forces of medium bombers. All bombs fell within the target area, causing heavy damage.

Big 2,000-pound bombs dug great craters in the runways. It was the first mention of bombs of this destructive power being used in this area.

The forceful assault with one-ton bombs served to punctuate authoritative statements made Thursday in reply to criticism over why the Japanese had been permitted to secure new bases in New Guinea.

The howl set up by critics concerning Jap landings at Gona and Buna, on the northeast coast of the Papua territory, was answered by a declaration that any force holding these areas left itself open to merciless aerial bombardment.

By attacking Rabaul in force

SOFTENS: Gandhi Drafts Note Seeking Freedom Negotiations

BULLETIN

BOMBAY, India—(AP)—The All-India Congress committee in convention here today endorsed Mohandas K. Gandhi's "Britain Must Quit India" resolution by a large majority.

(By United Press)

BOMBAY, India—Mohandas K. Gandhi, receding from his plan to deliver a seven-day ultimatum to the British Indian government on independence, has drafted a most conciliatory letter to the Marquis of Linlithgow, the viceroy, in a last-minute bid for negotiations, well informed quarters said today.

Nationalists of the All-India congress committee met today to pass their resolution calling for mass civil disobedience unless India is granted immediate independence.

But quarters close to Gandhi who is delegated to lead the disobedience campaign, said he not only would act "step by step" so that an all-embracing campaign would not be started at once, but that in a letter already drafted he addressed the victory in "most conciliatory, most friendly and pleading terms."

It was expected that the resolution would be passed today or tomorrow and Gandhi planned to send his letter Monday.

At first he proposed to enclose with it the resolution calling for disobedience as the alternative to independence now. But well informed sources said today that he now planned merely to send the letter so there would be no "impression of a threat, or even intimation, of a struggle."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: Robert K. Christenberry, president of the Broadway association, is one of the Gay White Way's first citizens. He knows more about New York than most sightseers—or most New Yorkers. And this is what he says about it. D. K.)

Robert K. Christenberry Muses—

Ever since the day I landed in New York—a lanky, gawky marine who just returned from France where even watching history in the making didn't entirely remove the hayseeds gathered in my native Tennessee, I've looked upon our city as "Bagdad-On-the-Subway."

The sights, the tempo of the town, the pep of its people, the bigness and its smallness all at once seemed too unreal. Like your first time on the brink of No-Man's land when you'd swear every shot was meant for you. It dwarfed imagination. It made everything I had read about New York remnants of understatement.

A great deluge of water has flowed under many a bridge since that day. But I've still got enough country left in me to feel exactly the same way about New York as I felt the early part of 1918. Only more so. For everything that was so wonderful then remains with a great deal added.

Every day a score or more of friends, or friends of friends, slip into the office with the challenge "Here I am—let's see that magic city of yours!"

Of course every taste and every personality, like every fingerprint, is different. So any plan I lay out for the enjoyment of a visitor can't be exactly the same. But there are a number of "musts."

Aside from the longest railroad ride in the world for a five-cent piece, I think one of the best bargain buys in New York is the one offered by the Fifth Avenue bus that travels from under the Washington Arch in Greenwich Village up Fifth Avenue, past St. Patrick's Cathedral and the famous Fifth Avenue stores across to Riverside Drive.

Perched atop one of these massive green liners, it costs only a dime to get a view of the mountainous Palisades, the giant George Washington Bridge, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, the Schwab estate, Grant's Tomb, the Claremont Inn, the Rockefeller-endowed Riverside Cathedral and the slick express highway running with the tide along the majestic Hudson River.

I prefer to take a visitor atop a Fifth Avenue bus rather than ride in my own car or theirs because it gives them a chance not only to see New York but to rub shoulders with New Yorkers and to become top seat drivers instead of back-seat drivers for a change.

I don't think any person is too sophisticated or blase not to get the thrill of a lifetime traveling at breath-taking speed vertically up the 102 stories of the Empire State Building, to stand on top of the world and look at New York—so big and yet so small. Laid out like the palm of your hand.

I know of no more picturesque hour than taking a Staten Island ferryboat, waving a greeting to the Statue of Liberty, seeing Fort Jay at Governor's Island and conjuring up the hundreds and thousands of dramas enacted in that little strip-of land known as Ellis Island. And on the return trip from Staten Island watching the skyline of Manhattan looming up large and larger in front of you as the ferry huffs and puffs its way through the gateway waters of what's left of a free world.

The major broadcasting stations are happy to provide tickets for major broadcasts. It's seldom they say "no." There are half a dozen fine reliable sight-seeing trips. And with time to tarry visitors are astounded at the clean expanse of soft, white, sandy beaches to be found at Jones Beach, Rye, Manhattan Beach, Long Beach—as well as the boardwalk and carnival excitement at Coney Island or the boating and deep-sea fishing.

For music lovers I defy any city to rival the Lewisohn Stadium Concerts or the Mall in the heart of Central Park.

For certain types of tourists I recommend a visit to the N. Y. Historical society or the Metropolitan Museum of Art, or the Public Library at Fifth avenue and 42nd street or any one of a score other public institutions of eye-filling treats. And the Hayden Planetarium, another hour you won't forget.

The churches, the department stores, Fifth Avenue, Madison avenue, the Bowery, Chinatown, Harlem, restaurants of 37 different nationalities within five blocks of Times Square — these vie with Broadway as first points of interest in the itinerary of even itinerant visitors.

Folks can enjoy fine fare and gape at celebrities at the Stork Club, the Versailles, "21"—and after midnight Lindy's is one of the favored haunts that come to mind. For raucous laughter there's always the 18 club, and for sly bizarre entertainment Leon & Eddie's is all its cracked up to be.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Cary Grant is a star who can choose the pictures he'll do. He said the other day that if Leo McCarey offered him the role of a bellhop in a story, he'd take it without a glance at the script.

This is a compliment to a director. When you consider that Cary looks over some 30 scripts a year to find the two he wants to do, it is quite a compliment. McCarey merits it because he was responsible for one of Grant's first big hits, "The Awful Truth," and responsible as producer for another, "My Favorite Wife."

Coons

Grant is now working with Ginger Rogers in McCarey's "Once Upon a Honeymoon." It is the director's first picture since "Love Affair," first he has directed since recovering from a nearly fatal auto accident in 1939.

McCarey is making "Once Upon a Honeymoon," his own story with writer Sheridan Gibney, because he couldn't find in any published yarn the things he wanted to say about the Nazis. It's about an American reporter (Grant) on the trail of a Hitler baron who goes from country to country "softening up" the nations for Hitler. This gives McCarey plenty of opportunity to comment on the Nazis, but he says his picture is a comedy.

There are times, he says, when he isn't sure about this because, in the filming, some of the lighter scenes are developing an emotional wallop, and some of the more serious passages are taking on a comedy tinge.

This is characteristic of the McCarey method of movie-making, for he believes in "developing" scenes and situations as they come up. This does not mean that he departs essentially from the script's story line, but that he embellishes, changes and deletes as he sees fit. A line that would be good for Irene Dunne might not ring true for Ginger Rogers, or vice versa. He likes to see his players in the characters before deciding how the script should play.

This differs from the common conception of "shooting from the cuff." Occasionally when a brilliant idea hits toward the finish of filming it means that preceding reels must be searched for "holes" and vulcanized—but Leo is an able vulcanizer.

His demeanor on the set is bright, unhurried, almost casual. Studio executive's sometimes worry about this — especially the one who came on a set once and found him playing the piano. (McCarey's avocation is songwriting.) This mogul went into his usual you're-ruining-me routine. McCarey pointed out that the lights were being set, that he hadn't a union card and couldn't help out, and he went on playing.

"At this rate you'll be shooting six months from now," said the boss.

McCarey shot the scene. "There's your picture," he said. "That finishes it."

MIDWAY STORIES BRING PROBE OF THREE PAPERS

Grand Jury to Investigate Publication of Data On Jap Strength.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Publication by three metropolitan newspapers of what Attorney General Francis Biddle termed "confidential information" concerning the battle of Midway, became today a subject for grand jury investigation.

The investigation, recommended by the navy department and requested by Biddle, will concern possible violation of any criminal statutes, particularly the Act of March 28, 1940, prohibiting unlawful communication of documents of information relating to national defense, the attorney general announced last night.

The official announcement of the inquiry did not name the newspapers but Robert W. Horton, head of the news bureau of the office of war information, identified them as the Chicago Tribune, the New York Daily News and the Washington Times Herald.

Following Biddle's announcement, the Tribune asserted in Chicago:

"That Washington would attack the Tribune and other newspapers which have demanded an all-out war effort and the removal of high officials who have been fumbling the ball at home came as no surprise," the Tribune said. "The political pot has been brewing for months."

Former United States Attorney General William D. Mitchell of New York was appointed a special assistant to launch the grand jury investigation in Chicago and direct "any prosecution which may result therefrom," Biddle said.

Horton said the three newspapers published a story June 7 stating that the strength of the Japanese naval forces in the Midway battle was known in advance in American naval circles.

The story, he said, cited its authority as "reliable sources in the naval intelligence" and listed both the enemy's striking force and the occupation force which were engaged.

The Chicago Tribune said War Correspondent Stanley Johnson "made up an estimate of the size and strength of the Japanese armada the navy defeated west of Midway."

The Tribune said it was cited the day after the story appeared for violating the censorship code but later was assured by the office of censorship in Washington that it had furnished an adequate explanation.

The paper was told, the Tribune asserted, that the censorship office "had no further quarrel with the Tribune in this matter."

The Tribune contended it had exercised extreme care to avoid violating the censorship code.

SEVEN ARRESTS

Highway Patrol Takes Drivers Into Custody Over Night.

State highway patrolmen reported seven arrests for traffic violations in the Mansfield area last night. Four of the arrests were for violations of a stop sign at the intersection of State Routes 61 and 544. The other three drivers were all charged with speeding on U. S. Route 42.

Two of the stop sign violators, Robert W. Libens, 22, of Crestline, and Rush Rosenberry of Shelby, were each fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace G. W. Armstrong of Shelby. Arrested on the same charge, Robert E. Sterling, 49, and Everett S. Wilson, 33, both of Shelby, are to appear in Armstrong's court this afternoon.

Clayton Marquart of Columbus, arrested by patrolmen for speeding on Route 42 last night, was fined $10 and costs by Ashland Police Judge Harold E. Andrews. Joseph Bagdonas of Cleveland posted $16.30 bond and waived appearance in municipal court today on the same charge. Another Clevelander charged with speeding, James Eady, forfeited $25 bond when he failed to appear in municipal court today.

STATE WORKERS GET PAY BOOST

Bricker Orders Increases For 3,000 In Ohio Welfare Units.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Governor Bricker today approved a $5 a month pay increase for approximately 3,000 lower-salaried employes in 19 state welfare institutions.

Assistant Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney said the order, effective from Aug. 1, would grant the increases to employes making less than $77.50 a month exclusive of maintenance in all state welfare institutions except the Ohio penitentiary, the London prison farm and the Mansfield reformatory where salaries are fixed by statute.

"It is the intent of the executive order to help the present low-salaried employes meet the increased cost of living, to induce many of them to remain in institutional service who may be planning to leave and possibly to attract others into the service," Bricker said in signing the order.

Mooney said shortage of personnel in the institutions had been a major problem for more than a year. He said presently the state was short-staffed by approximately 40 employes in its institutions.

ISSUES WARNING

Health Chief Says Bottle Caps Must Be Sterilized.

Although definitely stating that his office has no knowledge of possible offenses by Mansfield bottling firms, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner today issued a warning against the re-use of bottle caps having cork fillers.

"Porous cork is an excellent breeding ground for fungi, molds and yeast organisms," Dr. Wild explained. "These can be detrimental to health and while it is comparatively easy to sterilize the crimped metal caps, bottlers must be certain of using an approved sterilization process for the cork linings."

Douglas T. Griffin, district sanitary engineer, said a ruling from the U. S. department of agriculture requires certain sterilization standards and that an inspector from the state health department will be asked to make a survey here next week during a routine visit.

Laff-a-Day

"Better give me a great big piece. My mummy told me not to ask for a second helping!"

Boys who left for the army yesterday from draft Board 3 at the courthouse were treated to candy, gum, and soft drinks by Jimmy Lemley, blind proprietor of the courthouse confection stand. "I can't go to war, and if some of the boys can give their lives I can certainly give a little merchandise to help cheer them up some," Jimmy said. He added that the Lamplighters' club, an organization for the blind, will use the next money it receives for sales tax stamps to buy cigarets and candy for servicemen, donating them through the American Legion and Salvation Army.

Mansfield police proved samaritans and peace-makers early today. At 2 a. m., Cruiser Crew E. E. Hartnett and John Beard were dispatched to a Grover street address where a family quarrel was in progress. After some discussion an armistice was reached. At 3 a. m., the same officers were sent to an East Third street home. Here they found the man of the house was the only one in—the woman having been locked out. After some persuasive argument the barricaded husband was talked in to permitting his wife to enter her home.

It's probably just an old family custom. Although "dehorsed" now, Frend Boals used to ride a horse on his traffic duties in Mansfield several years ago.

TRUMAN HITS STEEL HEADS FOR SHORTAGE

Says Manufacturers Tried to Maintain Control Rather Than Expand.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Chairman Harry S. Truman (D., Mo.), of the senate committee investigating the war program said today that the interest of steel industry leaders in maintaining control of production lies back of the current shortage of the metal.

He said testimony by steel company witnesses and government officials in charge of the program "very thoroughly demonstrates that the difficulty has been in efforts to maintain control instead of to expand operations."

"I don't think there is any doubt that small mills can be used to increase production," he said, adding that he had no estimate of the extent to which such an increase would relieve the steel shortage which is holding back accelerated output of ships and war weapons.

Truman commented on testimony showing that representatives of the big steel companies not only governed allocations for expansion, but decided what firms should be permitted to continue plant enlargements after the War Production Board issued a general restriction order.

In one case the steel executives acted through an industry-appointed and unofficial "plant committee" which, during February and March, set up an "orderly" expansion schedule. Later a WPB "clearance" committee decided which plants could be finished by July 1, 1943, and should be exempted from the order halting further expansion. Five of the biggest steel companies were represented on both groups.

John F. Budke, vice president of one of the little companies, the Parkersburg, W. Va., Iron & Steel company, suggested that the small plants be permited representation on one committee or the other.

Truman said he regarded the suggestion as a "sound" one.

"And I don't think it would hurt them to have a labor representative on one of the committees," he added. "They have labor men who are just as capable as any of the employer managers they have."

Budke said his company, which operates a hand mill regarded as obsolete compared with strip mills, and others like it can aid in war production and will go out of business unless they get government orders.

Primary Election Supplies Go Out To Voting Centers

Ballots and supplies for the primaries next Tuesday were being distributed today by the county election board to voting places in the country rural areas and Shelby.

Supplies will be delivered to voting places in Mansfield Monday, Clerk Philip Wolfe of the election board said.

Only 72 applications were received for absentee ballots before the deadline yesterday, Wolfe said. It was one of the smallest absentee votes in recent years, indicating lagging interest in the Tuesday primaries, he added.

Down Four Enemy Planes Over Jap-Held Wake

The crew, above, of an American Flying Fortress on a secret mission over Jap-held Wake Island in the Pacific shot down four of six enemy planes that attacked their bomber. The fifth Jap fighter plane was listed as probably destroyed and it was believed the sixth possibly did not reach its base. OWI Officials Say Nation Falls Behind on Output Of Armaments.

while some individual Americans had made great sacrifices, "as a nation we are not yet more than ankle deep in the war."

"Too many people," it continued, "seem to feel that we are fighting this war out of a surplus —a surplus of resources and productive capacity, a surplus of time. That is not true. We have plenty of some resources; in others we have not enough."

The review referred indirectly to demands for a second front in Europe by asserting that "popular pressure for action on this front or that of the many possible fronts can serve no useful purpose."

"Our forces are being disposed as and where the military commanders believe they get the maximum or results according to the best professional judgment," OWI added. "When we cannot be strong and hit hard everywhere, we must be able to hit hard where it counts most even at the price of leaving other areas inactive."

Proclaiming that "we have done pretty well but not well enough," the report declared that while production measured by standards of two years ago was "amazing," the output compared with what was needed for victory was insufficient.

"By and large," OWI said, "we have not been producing war material to the maximum of available capacity, and have not been getting that material to the fighting fronts in the time and in the volume that will be needed to win."

The review asserted that our allies have carried most of the load and "we have not given them as much help as we had led them to expect." It added, however, that it was expected 1942 would be "largely a year of preparation" and "our allies would have to do most of the fighting during most of the year."

"We are deep in what may be the decisive year of the war," OWI observed, "but 1942 will be the decisive year only if our enemies do not succeed in inflicting crippling blows on our allies before the year is out."

The review asserted that if Russia's striking power is paralyzed, the British power in the Middle East broken or China's endurance ended," the war will be decided in some later year not now foreseen and victory will be far more costly."

GANDHI SOFTENS FREEDOM STAND

Drafts Letter Asking For Negotiations, Slows Disobedience Plan.

"It is a letter from a sincere friend to a sincere friend," an informant said, and added that it was intended to avoid a catastrophe in event that the viceroy's reply was unsatisfactory.

As the critical hour approached, faint hope rose—as it has done illusively so often before—that a compromise would be possible.

But admittedly the hope was based on the idea that Britain might agree to open negotiations on the nationalists' terms.

It was understood that Gandhi had received a long telegram from Horace Alexander, British Quaker who is now at New Delhi, the capital, conferring with high officials.

Also Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, liberal leader, was still trying to arrange a round-table compromise conference at which all Indian elements and the British government would be presented.

It was said that the Moslem league representing 80,000,000 Mohammedans was unenthusiastic but that Sapru persevered and was in correspondence with the viceroy.

Leaders forecast that only a handful of Indian communists on the all India congress committee, which represents the vast nationalist congress party, would oppose the disobedience resolution.

In the preface of a propaganda pamphlet published today, outlining methods which the government of India was alleged to use in opposition to the all-India congress, Gandhi challenged the government to call a plebiscite to test public opinion on the nationalist demand for immediate independence.

U. S. Bombers Hit Canton Airport

CHUNGKING —(INS)—American bombing planes, accompanied by an escort of fighters, today attacked the Japanese-held "White Cloud" airdrome at Canton and blasted Japanese buildings, docks and wharves in the Canton area, American headquarters in China announced.

Several Japanese planes were destroyed on the ground. Two and possibly three were shot out of the air when pursuit ships rose in an attempt to intercept the United States planes.

"There was extensive damage to Japanese installations and several enemy planes were destroyed on the ground," a communique issued by Lieut. Gen. Joseph D. Stilwell said.

with 2,000-pound missiles the United Nations fliers gave a pointed demonstration of what the circles close to the high command had in mind.

Japanese seizure of the island of Kei, Aru and Tenimber, in the Arafura sea between New Guinea and Timor to the west also brought about new fears that the threat to Australia was increasing.

The Allied air successes failed to assuage official concern over the few troops and the small amount of equipment in Australia compared to what should be provided if an offensive is to be started from the southwest Pacific. It is also felt that the air forces in commonwealth bases can stand considerable building up if such raids as yesterday's attack on Rabaul are to be continued with effect.

Congressman Defends Voting Record at G.O.P. Rally Held at Park.

along every time I think the president is right, but I won't when I think he's wrong. I reserve the right to criticize, for only by criticism can we get the best out of anything."

Defending his vote against the selective service act in September, 1940, he said that "over 85 per cent of the people I represented were against it at that time and besides, the act exempts members of congress and I wasn't going to vote to send boys to army camps when congressmen didn't have to go. We didn't have any guns or ammunition for the men then, either."

Explaining his vote against one of the lease-lend bills which gave the president the right to help any country he choose, McGregor said he knew at that time that the United States army was only 27 per cent equipped and he didn't think it was reasonable to send supplies and equipment overesas under those conditions.

He produced his congressional voting record, showing that he voted for 29 major defense bills and appropriations and against only six of them.

"The New Dealers accuse us of not looking into the future to see Pearl Harbor and Wake Island, and I'd like to know why they couldn't look far enough ahead to see the rubber shortage which is getting serious," he asserted.

Congress as early as 1939 authorized President Roosevelt to go ahead with a program to avert a contemplated rubber shortage, but the national administration did nothing about it and there is still no definite progress being made he added.

He called the sugar rationing and alleged sugar-shortage "a farce," but added that the rubber shortage "really is serious."

He charged that money is still being "thrown away" on nondefense projects and bureaus under the guise of "emergency" measures. There are 600 bureaus in Washington and two million people on the federal payroll, he said. A publicity bureau alone is costing 27 million dollars a year "just to publicize the New Deal," he asserted.

Other district and county G. O. P. candidates were introduced by Ralph Hardy, county executive chairman. Mayor William J. Locke and John L. Catlett, candidate for state representative, spoke briefly.

Earl A. McFarland, 17th district state central committeeman, urged Republicans to support Judge Charles S. Bell of Cincinnati for the supreme court vacancy caused by the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman. He said petitions must be circulated for Judge Bell by Sept. 1 to get his name on the November ballot.

Presiding during the party rally was Mrs. Carl Spangler, president of the county G. O. P. women's organization, which sponsored the affair jointly with the Republican campaign committee.

The Ashland County Executive Committee on June 9th passed the following resolution: "The Ashland County Executive Committee, in executive session hereby indorses Chas. M. Beer, former Manager of Ohio State Fair for State Central Committeeman of the 17th District."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and if everybody does likewise there'll be no accidents.

Unheard remark: "It wasn't my partner's fault that we were set three tricks—it was my foolish bidding."

Suggested forecast, to cover the rubber situation, gas rationing, the Caucasus crisis, and the weather: No relief in sight.

Register Again for Canning Sugar

NEXT Thursday and Friday will bring another of the occasions on which the people of Mansfield and Richland county will subject themselves to the penalty of $10,000 fine or a year's imprisonment (or both), if they fail to give truthful information about the quantity of sugar they have on hand; the amount of canning sugar still unused out of previous canning allotment; the number of quarts of fruit canned with sugar already obtained on previous applications in 1942; the number of quarts of fruit now in possession of the family unit, and "the number of quarts of fruit to be canned between date of this application and December 31, 1942."

As heretofore, there will be allowance of one pound of sugar "for each four quarts of finished canned fruits or fruit juices for home consumption."

But if you happen to be one of those persons accustomed to making "preserves, jams, jellies or fruit butters," you're out of luck, for only one pound of sugar per person per year is allowed for this purpose—although you can go to the store and buy all the factory-made "preserves, jams, jellies or fruit butters" you want.

Absurdity of the whole sugar rationing plan is seen in the frequency with which some families tell of not being able to use all the sugar allotted them under the regular coupon rationing method while others are required to go through a lot of red tape in order to get enough sugar to meet reasonable home requirements . . . and through all of this sugar warehouses are bulging with surpluses and this year's production promises to exceed home and commercial requirements.

But those who will serve at the various voting places in city and county next Thursday and Friday will be voluntary workers, who are not being paid for the time and effort they will expend—so be as pleasant as possible when you register for the fall allotment of canning sugar—and remember the penalty for false statements!

Scrap War Reminders, If Necessary

AS WAS indicated yesterday, if there is real need, Mansfield will willingly surrender publicly displayed cannons and all souvenirs of other wars, of which use can be made in winning THIS war.

Such mementoes have a sentimental, rather than an actual value, and their presence in the community serves to keep alive the memory of past events in history and to instil patriotism in succeeding generations.

If this round-up of scrap metal continues to the point of general contribution of war relics, including statues of national and sectional heroes, the potentialities will be almost limitless, with southern states particularly well equipped to add to the scrap pile from the plethora of Civil war reminders to be seen in every large and small southern city.

It cannot be doubted that this emphasis on the war between the states has been effective in carrying through a spirit of resentment, if not hatred, into the present generation of people in what were the Confederate states, and post-war unity for all people in the United States will be aided by indication that "the solid south" realizes that the Civil war is over.

Vandalism In Butler

WHETHER by means of a reward, or by public co-operation in detecting and punishing the culprit—or culprits—something should be done quickly to put a stop to acts of malicious destruction that have become an aftermath of "the Butler school fight."

This has developed into more than a village incident and has grown into a reflection on the entire county. Residents of the village who have been made the victims of vandalism are justified in belief that they are entitled to protection by law enforcement authorities, and with a large percentage of the citizenship demanding action it would appear that a little intelligent detective work might disclose the perpetrators and put a stop to the ourageous acts.

Butler has been regarded as a quiet, pleasant, law-abiding community. Its residents should lose no time in restoring their village to that status.

Nazi Methods In Rumania

THE NAZIS won Rumania, says Countess Waldeck, an anti-Nazi observer who was there, because they sold each group, one at a time, on the virtues of Nazism. Particularly they tried to suggest to each group that the corresponding class in Germany was doing very well.

Wealthy German bankers were paraded before Rumanian bankers to prove that wealth was not disturbed in Germany. Intellectual Germans were similarly displayed to prove that not all educated Germans were in concentration camps.

The underlying idea was to play group against group, and especially the group against the country as a whole. Hints of special favors were often thrown out. To get the favors, that class was often too willing to throw its own country overboard.

Thus Rumania was captured, and France also—piecemeal, by group bribery. The same Nazi technique has been tried here, so far without much success. Unremitting watchfulness against it is called for. The copybook motto still holds and with ever-increasing exigency: Eternal Vigilance is the Price of Liberty.

Wonderful New Cars---After the War

FROM ALL accounts, the next crop of automobiles turned out in this country will be something to stare at as well as something to ride in.

They are to be made largely of aluminum, magnesium and other light metals, with many mechanical improvements. The bodies may be largely of transparent plastics. And there will be considerable silver in them, not only for ornamental purposes but for invisible bearings.

PUT IMPORTANT THINGS FIRST

Expect Hitler Peace Feelers Soon

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Predictions are heard that Herr Hitler will be putting out peace feelers before this year's end.

Nobody surmises that he'll suggest terms except of a nature very favorable to the Reich. Still, there are prophets who forecast that he will propose abandonment of a few small territorial gains made by the Nazis, in comparison with their status before the war started.

That is to say, the notion is that their purpose will be to give the impression that they're prepared to promise certain inducements to the United Nations to quit fighting 'em long enough to enable 'em to assimilate the bulk of what they've got now.

Possibly two or three hints of this sort have come, roundabout, from Berlin.

There isn't a chance that the democracies will pay the least attention to 'em in an affirmative way. Nevertheless they're welcome, as indicating a loosening of the Axis tie-up and a realization by the Reich's leadership that now is the time for it to consolidate its position, or it isn't likely to remain intact indefinitely.

The Fuehrer himself isn't given credit for that much sanity but the ablest of his advisers are.

The countries he's overrun naturally are assessed, not as an asset, but as a liability to him. Italy's referred to as more than too Germanly lukewarm to count. Japan's believed to be virtually anti-German, otherwise than as a Jap convenience in connection with Nippon's plan for a thrust by Nippon against the Muscovites.

Hitler Should Know—

The best guess is that Adolf, if he has any sense at all, must already be aware that Italy's a wobbly reed, that Russia still is a danger, that Japan's a worse one, potentially, that China's got him swamped, from the standpoint of population, if nothing else, that Britain and the American hemisphere generally never will quit fighting him, and that pretty soon will be a good juncture for him to talk overtures, while he seems to be pretty formidable.

The question is? — when peace talk starts?—then what?

The Germans aren't Hitler alone; they're Germans, too. The Italians, ditto, aren't exclusively Mussolini. State Secretary Cordell Hull has emphasized that the world's next peace must be INTERNATIONAL. Does that mean that Germany and Italy must be in on it on a fair percentage basis? After the fashion in which they've fallen for Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini it'll be difficult, but maybe not impossible.

Japan'll be harder, not because of any individual, but because of its crazy militarists.

China'll be o. k.

So will the western American world and the Axis conquered countries.

But that peace conference?

According to Secretary Hull, it's got to provide international economic security. Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's lord privy seal, agrees.

Now, the problem is:

Making It Stick.

When those peacemakers get together, will they be able to concur on a bargain that'll stick?

It'll suit the victors, but will it suit the vanquished? The prospective victors think it will.

The issue has a lot to do with our own internal economics after the war. The issue whether or not we absorb our domestic economics in peace days is at stake. Last time we didn't do it, and it raised economic heads.

If these economists are good for a nickel's worth, they'll have an opportunity to demonstrate it.

Listen World!

Take a Vacation

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT ABOUT VACATIONS? Perhaps that seems a trivial subject to you but it's a serious problem to millions of boys and girls, men and women defense workers. Here's a note from a lass at Shreveport, Louisiana:

"Can't you give us a little advice about this vacation business? We've been asked to restrict travel, often urged to sacrifice our vacations for defense needs. Then we pick up a paper and read about Mrs. So-and-so going to her summer camp in the mountains or the high school boys and girls attending fraternity and sorority conventions, and we wonder what's right.

"Of course if we lived in beautiful homes with plenty of space and neighborhood friends it might not be so bad. But most of us spend our days in some shabby boarding house room where we never see the great outdoors, and follow a monotonous routine week after week. Most of the other workers I know are as puzzled as I am. When we remember the plight of our boys at Bataan we realize that giving up a vacation is about the smallest sacrifice we could make. Then we see our former classmates buying vacation clothes and going off to a grand time, even though the buses and trains are overcrowded. What's the answer?

JEAN ELLIOTT.

I don't know the answer, Jean. But I do know that vacations are as essential to the defense program as making bombs and bullets.

Many people will say, "We didn't have vacations when I was a youngster. We stayed home and helped the old folks or did chores at the local grocery or butcher shop. Or maybe minded the neighbor's baby."

That's true. Vacations in the 90's, for common working folk, were about as rare as sun suits, and much in the same category. "Regular folk" just stuck around at home and plugged along, with perhaps an occasional picnic or a ride in the livery stable buggy.

But this isn't 1892. It's 1942 and life has changed mightily. It has speeded up beyond all imagination and also beyond our normal human tension. There was drudgery in 1892, and plenty of it. And plenty of monotony. But there was never the pressure and speed and constantly increasing clamor which there is today. Most of us live now in a dizzy round which would give a trapeze performer the heebie-jeebies, and unless we can occasionally have something to relieve that round, we grow stale or crack.

Personally I believe emphatically in vacations.

I believe in getting away from familiar places and faces. And above all from familiar tasks. This plea to restrict unnecessary traveling is well-based. Our trains, planes and buses are overcrowded. But we can all manage, if we plan ahead, to get a few miles away from home and into a new section of life, even if it's only in a rented trailer. And our tired minds and bodies make up for lost time if we do. Or go wacky if we don't.

AND THIS APPLIES TO MOM JUST AS IT DOES TO THE REST OF THE FAMILY. PERHAPS YOU HAVE NEVER THOUGHT OF HER AS A "WOIKING GAL." BUT SHE IS, AND HOW!

Timely Editorial

Wartime Spending.

A quick and graphic comparison of the present cost of government including war appropriations, with that of a little more than a decade ago is found in recently compiled figures.

During the first 25 days of the current fiscal year which started July 1, federal spending totaled more than $4,000,000,000 of which $3,500,000,000 was for war purposes. During all of 1930, the entire cost of government was only $3,994,152,487.

At that rate the administration will spend something over 12 times as much during the present fiscal year than was spent 12 years ago—possibly more, since the present daily spending rate is about $2,000,000 more than it was at this time last year.—Columbus Dispatch.

Russian Scene Holds Attention as Nazis Make Encirclement Attempt

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHEN the Nazi military machine went battering into Russia last summer it rolled over and around defending Russian armies, encircled whole units and annihilated them, caused widespread confusion.

Military experts watching Hitler's armies smash ahead once more with the ground-eating speed of the 1941 advances, saw a major difference during the week, held it up as the one ray of hope in an otherwise extremely dark Russian picture.

All the way back from the Kursk-Kharkov front, across the treeless steppes of the Don Basin, into the flat-as-a-pancake area of the North Caucasus, all of it terrain especially suited to encircling, swiftly-thrusting mechanized warfare, the Russians had retreated in an orderly, costly-to-the-enemy manner.

For a while, early in the week, it appeared the Russians were going to make a stand. "Not a step backward," Stalin had exhorted the weary defenders. All along the line from the area below Rostov to the Don Bend the Russians stiffened and the plea seemed destined for a place alongside Petain's famous "They shall not pass" at Verdun.

Cossacks to Fore.

The famed Russian Cossacks, many of them with grandsons on the front lines, took up the cry, shouted it as they rode horseback against the German tank hordes to defend their homeland in the ancient hills of the northern Caucasus.

Russian reports said that 6,000 Germans were killed in a single day along the 550-mile front at this stage of the week's fighting and in many sectors the Soviets were counter-attacking successfully.

But at mid-week the Germans were on the move again; throwing reserves by the thousands into the fight, employing every possible unit of modern mechanized warfare — fast motorcycles, troop-carrying trucks, tanks bearing automatic riflemen, and small tanks.

Still, despite the Nazis' use of parachute troops and tanks landed from planes behind the lines, the Russians had avoided encirclement.

Experts saw the Russians angling for a new line of defense, to stretch north and south.

Successfully managed, this line would anchor on the south in the shadows of the ice-crowned Caucasus mountains. There, only two passes usable just a few weeks of the year provide passage through to the Baku oil fields where 80% of Russia's oil flows.

At Home

Ships, Subs, or Planes?

A. J. Higgins, New Orleans shipbuilder, complained in Washington some 10 days ago that what happened to him (cancellation of a maritime commission contract to build 200 Liberty ships) shouldn't have happened to a dog.

In different words, but along the same line, Senator Truman spoke during the week for a senate investigating committee in a letter to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. Said the letter, made public by Higgins in New Orleans:

"Our committee cannot condemn too strongly the negligence or wilful misconduct on the part of the bureau of ships entrusted with this vital matter. . . . A company possessing the skill and energy in both design and construction now admitted by the bureau of ships ought not to have received the treatment accorded to it in this manner."

But even as the investigation into the shipbuilding cancellation continued, army and navy officers were called into conference by a third congressional group and asked for advice on the need for giant flying boats, cargo-carrying submarines, or both as a substitute for ships to beat the submarine menace.

And War Production board experts recommended that the present production of cargo planes be at least doubled. Chairman Donald Nelson, though, explained that making more cargo planes would mean making less of some other kind.

Beetle Buster.

For 25 years, ever since it first made its appearance in eastern gardens, the pesky Japanese beetle has gone around thumbing its nose at effort to extinguish it, has grown to an agricultural pest of major proportions.

But now, says the Japanese beetle control division of the department of agriculture, the green-winged beauty is on its way out.

An Asiatic wasp, says Fred Williams, division inspector, provided the solution. Colonies of the imported wasps placed in infested eastern areas have increased the beetle death toll in some areas to 60%.

The wasp, using a dive-bombing technique, lays its eggs on the beetle grub which has hatched out on top soil. Then the young wasps proceed to devour their second cousins. Said Williams:

"One Jap menace—the nasty little devil—is doomed!"

Women In Blue.

While women who fancy blue clothes—and a chance to serve as officers in the new feminine naval reserve—wrote in for application blanks during the week, the head of the "Waves" solemnly took her oath of office in Washington.

Then Lieut. Comm. Mildred McAfee, formerly known as President McAfee of Wellesley college, sat down to answer questions about the organization of 1,000 enlisted women, 100 officers, which will serve to free navy men from desk jobs for active duty.

Officer selectees will begin training this fall at Smith college, will wear two-piece uniforms, blue for winter, white next summer. The hat, a narrow-brimmed affair rolled up on the sides, is copied from 18th century seamen's hats.

"Waves" will salute male naval officers. Will sailors, though, salute girl ensigns and lieutenants? Undecided.

Abroad

Turnabout In China.

Chinese soldiers, long accustomed to having the enemy air force come in unopposed to soften them up for Japanese ground forces, enjoyed a taste of the procedure in reverse during the week—and liked it.

U. S. bombers, hurling 550-pound bombs into Japanese-held Linchwan (Fuchow), grinned as they saw the Chinese press in to take advantage of the bomb hits and storm to the very walls of the enemy stronghold after capturing Huwan, 12 miles away.

The Japanese, attempting to erase the new interference with their campaigning in China, waged a bitter aerial attack against the U. S. base in Hunan province, sent 119 planes against the post in 2 days, lost 13 of their vaunted Zero fighters and four bombers. One bombing unit sent against the Americans turned back before reaching the target when its fighter vanguard folded up before it.

Jungle Threat.

Green-clad Japanese jungle fighters, filtering through the wild New Guinea brush towards Port Moresby, pointed up a possible renewal of important Japanese action in the Australian area.

Recently landed in small-scale invasion force on the northern coast of Papua, the invaders struck out boldly toward "the Gap," a 6,000-foot pass through the rugged Owen Stanley mountain range.

First objective gained by the Nipponese was the village of Kogoda and its adjacent airfield, only a few miles from the Gap.

Experts regarded the mountains as an almost insurmountable barrier before Port Moresby, Allied base only 60 miles from the nearest Jap patrols, but so, thought the British, were the jungles of Malaya impassable.

Out of Date.

The 1938 Munich agreement, the British government decided formally during the week, is dead.

In a technical action in the house of commons, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced that:

"As Germany has deliberately destroyed arrangements concerning Czechoslovakia reached in 1938 in which His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom participated, His Majesty's government regard themselves as free from any engagement in this respect. . . ."

Persona Non Grata.

Argentine newspapers, quoting a letter from Waldo Frank, noted U. S. author and lecturer visiting the South American country on the invitation of various universities and cultural societies, said Frank had found "confusion, discontent and discouragement not far from consternation" there.

The Argentine government, presumably regarding Frank's comment as a poke at President Castillo's "cautious neutrality," asserted that Frank no longer was welcome.

Next day five men entered the author's apartment, pummelled him badly while a sixth stood guard at the door.

Frank, recovering in a hospital from a severe concussion and other injuries, said he believed the attack was the work of "a small Fascist element" not representative of the true sentiments of the Argentine people. Some Argentine newspapers and statesmen expressed shame over the incident.

From the foreign office, which had declared the 53-year-old visitor persona non grata, came no immediate comment.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — "The most dangerous period in a pilot's career is when he has had between 100 and 150 hours in the air. Then he becomes careless. He forgets to think. And he runs into trouble."

So believes Lieut. Colonel Edwin M. Dixon, of the Army Air Corps, who has had more than 23 years of flying experience to his credit, and more than 3,400 hours in the air.

We were discussing the rising tide of aircraft accidents around the country that is claiming so many lives and so much valuable equipment. Frankly worried by the loss in personnel, the War Department has instituted a safety campaign both in and outside the army. These accidents will have to be cut down. Hardly a day goes by but that you read of a bomber here, a pursuit ship there. . . Only recently these accidents claimed a major general on a routine flight in Tennessee.

"YES," added the colonel, "after they've had a hundred or so hours they lose respect for the plane. They get too good. They omit the little routine precautions that so often save lives. . . . They forget sometimes that you shouldn't try to land with the brakes on. . . I've known of accidents that resulted because the pilot forgot to snap the gas on all the way. . . . That's pure carelessness. . . . No excuse for it at all. But, it happens every day."

Did Col. Dixon think accidents per flying hour were beyond those a year ago? On the contrary, he thinks that while the actual number of accidents is higher than ever the percentage is much smaller. This country has 12 times as much flying as it had a year ago. But the death rate from accidents is still too high. If it continues at its present rate the U. S. will lose between 5,000 and 6,000 trainees in home accidents by the end of next year. That's still too many by far.

COL. DIXON, ex-barnstormer, ex-aerial gunnery instructor, ex-target tower, spent three years as commanding officer of the 152nd Observation squadron. During that three years the squadron had only one accident—due to a broken runway—and no one was hurt. "We had nine pilots and three observers," adds the colonel. "One of those pilots today is co-pilot for Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drumm; another is co-pilot for the commanding general of the 6th Corps area; the others all are commanding officers of observation squadrons in the Ground Air command. The reason? Those boys learned care. . . . They never took unnecessary chances."

The worst of all accidents is the type caused by lack of altitude, and there is seldom any excuse for such an accident. This is Col. Dixon's opinion, who considers an extra thousand feet of altitude more worthwhile than money in the bank. "You've got no right to give yourself less than 1,000 feet leeway, and you should take two thousand if you're within a hundred miles of a peak."

Signs of Times

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad's passenger department announced, during the week, that its around the world tours will be officially called off effective Sept. 1. There have been no patrons for such trips since Dec. 7, the announcement explained, adding that no sales between now and the deadline are contemplated.

When Sgt. Mac McElhinney sent his shirt to a Phoenix, Ariz., laundry he forgot to remove his prized address book from the pocket. The book came back, though, with the clean shirt, and with a dozen additional girls' names, addresses and phone numbers.

Buell-Kraft Studio Keeps High Standards In Photographic Work

Owner Refuses To Follow Methods of "Chain-Store"

"Quality" is the keyword for the materials and service given Mansfield area photographic enthusiasts by the Buell-Kraft Studio, 48 West Third street.

"On no account, will we ever sacrifice quality to compete with "chain-store" photographic methods, says Clarence A. Buell, proprietor of the studio, who has been in the photographic business for more than 22 years.

Buell emphasizes that word "quality" when he is speaking of the photo-finishing done for Mansfielders.

"Only by using quality material and trained workmen can you turn out quality work," says Buell.

The Buell-Kraft Studio has one of the most completely equipped photography studios in north-central Ohio.

Buell has operated the studio for the past six years. He entered the studio field after 16 years of experience in the commercial and industrial photographic business. He still retains a large part of the industrial photographic contracts in the city.

Through Buell's studio, photographic fans are given a much better choice of materials than they would have in other cities the size of Mansfield. Buell maintains a complete stock of camera, films and photographic supplies for the amateur or professional.

Persons wishing to have portraits taken of soldier relatives or of themselves will find no better studio within 50 miles of the city. Buell's daughter, Naomi Karchner, has been especially trained to color photographs.

It's a thrill to the service man when the mail brings him photographs from home. He, in turn likes to send snapshots home. Many times, he can send only the undeveloped negatives. By taking these negatives to the Buell-Kraft Studio, Mansfielders may insure themselves against disappointment at bad results.

Supplies for home motion picture enthusiasts may be secured at Buell's. Pictures of some of the latest American Navy successes in the Pacific can be obtained.

Using your own movie projector, you can sit back in your armchair and see the Battle of Midway and the Battle of Coral Sea.

More fun at home for the duration is the motto of Americans faced with the rubber shortage which means less highway travel and probably less golf and tennis. Ping-pong and other games will receive a real boost from the rubber shortage.

It's easy to have an attractive basement party room when an automatic coal stoker has been installed, according to the Charles Hoffman company, 114 North Walnut street, which displays domestic Iron Fireman models.

Not only the basement, but the whole house will be cleaner with an automatic stoker. Proper firing and complete combustion do away with the billows of smoke and soot that occur with hand-firing. Draperies, slip-covers and rugs need not go to the cleaners as often after stoker firing is adopted.

MANSFIELD GARDEN CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. G. V. Smith, Mrs. Paul Bovard Are Hostesses At Women's Club; Arrangements Featured, Gardens Visited.

WHEN Mrs. G. V. Smith and Mrs. Paul Bovard entertained the Mansfield Garden club at the Women's Club on Friday, there were lovely flower arrangements by six of the members. The centerpiece for the tea table was Mrs. William Bowers' beautiful, long arrangement of lavender and pink consisting of Antoinette Henri phlox, aconitum and Rubrum lilies. Mrs. Ephraim Brown, club president, and Mrs. Wallace Campbell presided at the table.

On one of the mantels there were Rubrum lilies, blue delphinium and white petunias displayed by Mrs. Hamilton Walter. Mrs. Robert Gibson had a bouquet of Picardy gladioli on the piano, and a miniature arrangement of pansies with Silver King artemesia was made by Mrs. Alfred Reynolds. Pink zinnias and blue delphinium formed Mrs. George Meade's arrangement on the mantel in the front room. A lovely bronze pitcher contained the new Henryi lilies which are an apricot shade. These were brought by Mrs. Milton Doolittle.

The paper for the afternoon, which was given by Mrs. John Hattery, was on "The Camellia." Committee reports were given by Mrs. Alfred Colby on the junior garden club activities: Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Leo Perl on the gardens of girls and boys, respectively, at the Children's Home; by Mrs. Bovard for the project committee, and by Mrs. Stanley Schiller for the hospital.

After the meeting the members, as a group, went to the Children's Home to see the flower and vegetable gardens sponsored by the club and grown and cared for by the children. Each year the Mansfield Garden club sponsors the Children's Home gardens as one of its projects and rewards the youngsters with prizes for the best results.

On Aug. 21, Mrs. Arthur Rigby and Mrs. E. J. Gilbert will entertain at the former's home on the Marion avenue road.

THEATERS

Technicolor Movie.

Starting today at the Ohio theater is the technicolor adventure romance, "Beyond the Blue Horizon," starring Dorothy Lamour, the sarong-queen, with Richard Denning. A new tune that la Lamour introduces is "A Full Moon and an Empty Heart." The villain of the show this time is a man-killing elephant whose stamping ground is the jungle spot where certain papers have been lost, which would prove Dotty heiress to a fortune in the United States. Again Dorothy dons a sarong and finds a new jungle sweetheart, one blond and handsome Richard Denning.

Crawford-Douglas Film.

Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas, co-star in what is said to be one of the year's gayest comedy romances, "They All Kissed the Bride," showing today at the Madison theater. Joan returns to the type of characterization which first made her a star, a dancing, romancing comedy role. Douglas appears as a young man, who believes that there's never anything wrong with a woman that a man's lips can't cure. The result of his trying to prove his thesis is a laugh riot. Second feature is "Grand Central Murder" with Van Heflin and Patricia Dane.

'Man From Montana.'

On the screen at the Park theater for the last time today is Johnny Mack Brown in "Man from Montana." Here he plays a fighting sheriff, who tries to keep fairness in the western lands invaded by the homesteaders. On the twin bill is "Our Russian Front," depicting the situation in Russia. Sunday comes the much talked-of Bette Davis in "In This Our Life," with George Brent. Second feature is "Shadows of the Underworld" with Barry K. Barns.

Murder Thriller.

Ending tonight at the Ritz theater is "Pacific Blackout," a gripping thrill film of murder, sabotage and romance during an air raid alert. Set in a west coast city where a practice blackout, with its sirens, roaring bombers and anti-aircraft guns, is in full swing, this show is the first picture on the vital theme of Civilian Defense to come out of Hollywood. Robert Preston and Martha O'Driscoll have leading roles. Second attraction is "Rock River Renegades." The horror picture, "The Ghost of Frankenstein," starts Sunday plus Gene Autry in "Heart of the Ric Grande."

To Help Conserve Materials Just Follow Rules

It's your patriotic duty to help conserve materials needed by our fighting forces. One way to do this is to practise a few simple "life-preserving" tricks on your wardrobe.

1. Don't crowd clothes into your closet, as friction and constant handling wears them out. Use padded hangers to keep shoulders in line, and get some special skirt hangers.

2. Fight that enemy—dust—with a fresh, clean whisk-broom. Thoroughy brush all suits, coats, hats and dresses as soon as you take them off. Hang your dresses in the air before puttting them away.

3. Avoid two-day dirt, for the dirtier clothes are, the harder they must be washed—and scrubbing weakens all fabrics. Be sure to remove spots on washable fabrics before laundering, as some spots become "set" by hot water. Also, mend your clothes before washing them to prevent rips and tears from becoming larger in the laundry.

4. Save all fabric labels so that you can carefully follow their directions for laundering or cleaning materials. Take clothes that must be dry-cleaned to a reputable cleaner—it pays in the end!

5. Protect all seasonal clothing by placing it in sealed bags that have been liberally sprinkled with mothballs or flakes.

6. Be sure to use dress shields to prevent staining of good clothes. The pin-in type is convenient if you want to remove and launder your shields often.

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE.

Russell Harrison, Lincoln Heights, announces the engagement and coming marriage of his daughter, Eleanor, to Robert Wilkins, Lincoln Heights. The ceremony will take place at the United Brethren church this Sunday, Aug. 9, in an open church wedding.

* * *

Oscar Bollman, 292 Newman street, announces the approaching marriage of his daughter, Ruth, to Sergt. John F. Baki, 115 Gibson avenue. The wedding will take place at St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2:15 p. m. Sunday. Open church will be observed.

WILLING WORKERS.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"You may not know the answer," I told the pseudo old man across the table from me, "but I am curious to know if you or your friend knows anything about a queer fan letter and water color drawing which Princess Olina recently received from some anonymous admirer."

Either he was a rarely gifted Thespian or he really knew nothing of the letter. I could tell nothing from his eyes, hidden by the colored glasses, but his facial expression and his voice held only puzzled surprise.

"Fan letter? Water color drawing?" he repeated. "No, I know nothing of anything like that. But pardon me, that expression 'fan letter'—does not that refer to mail which a theatrical or radio performer receives?"

I looked at him with steady intentness.

"Do you not know that Princess Olina is featured in one of the leading Broadway productions as a harp soloist?" I asked, and watched narrowly for his reaction to the question.

Shows Surprise.

But his face registered only shocked surprise, and his words corroborated his facial expression.

"No, I did not know that," he said heavily. "I am almost totally ignorant of, or have not time for, the lighter things of life. But this will come as a great blow to my friend. To think of Princess Olina, the last of her royal line—for I fear her brothers are dead—being compelled to exhibit herself upon the stage!"

I would have staked much upon my conviction that this last choice specimen of sentimentality was spurious—thrown in to bolster his wished-for effect of surprise—and I could not resist giving him a cheap retort which, if I had been sure he meant the slur, I never would have though of uttering.

"I do not consider that a calamity," I said icily. "I happen to be the author of the play in which Princess Olina is featured, and I can assure you that circumstances did not compel her to accept the role."

"Her mother recently was married to Philip Veritzen, the famous impresario, who is producing the play, and who gave her the role because of her great talent. He is a very wealthy man, and he showers money and luxuries upon his wife and his stepdaughter. No question of need is involved in her stage appearances."

His face betrayed distress now, and I maliciously welcomed his discomfort.

"I am afraid I have offended you," he said contritely, "but really I intended no offense. I realize your viewpoint and hers. It is only that I have not yet shed the reverence for royalty in which I was reared."

His speech made me distinctly ashamed of myself, and I made what hasty amends I could.

"You have not effended me in the least," I told him. "I admit I was a little startled at first, then I realized that you have a different background and viewpoint.

"Please think nothing more of it, but give me as quickly as possible the information you said you thought I ought to have. I am sorry to hurry you, but really I have not much time."

Royal Family In Danger.

"Nor have I," he returned. "But this is something you must know. I have learned, no matter how that Princess Olina and her mother, Queen Olga, are in great danger. The men who have taken over Transvania have sworn to exterminate every member of the royal family.

"They have not perfected an organization over here," he went on, "but they are in toch with other organizations already here. The queen and the princess should be carefully guarded."

"They have been closely guarded ever since their arrival in this country,' 'I told him, "but I shall report what you have told me to the proper authorities, and you may be sure that extraordinary precautions will be taken."

"That will be a great relief to my friend," he said. "And now, as I have told you what I thought you must know, I will conduct you back to your table. But first, if I should learn anything more, where could I find you, or rather, might I be permitted to find you?"

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 9.

Sunday's horoscope holds all the testimonies of a happy, prosperous and enjoyable day, with much festive celebration and merrymaking, probably in honor of a romantic or sentimental occasion. This should be indulged with unusual zest, albeit interrupted by a surprising occurrence.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of great enjoyment and happiness, in which some outstanding domestic, affectional, romantic or social event may demand paramount attention. However, any business in connection with such hospitality or celebration would prove profitable. The happy course of events might be temporarily interrupted by an untoward or sudden occurrence.

A child born on this day while having a profound and studious mentality may choose to devote itself to the pursuit of pleasure or the quest of happiness rather than exalted ambitions.

For Monday, August 10.

Monday's astrological augury is for intriguing, irregular or unpredictable events of a surprising and probably dramatic nature. There are also undercurrents of mystery or novelty, which might be turned to good account by sound thinking or well-organized strategies. Secrecy prevails.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year of peculiarly subtle, novel and intriguing events and experiences, in which strange circumstances may be turned to successful and reasonable issues by shrewd, cautious and deep laid strategies. This curious and challenging state of affairs may demand circumspect and clever handling in order to fathom its mystery and subtlety.

A child born on this day may be gifted with talents of an exceptional or unique order, with subtlety, ingenuity and originality.

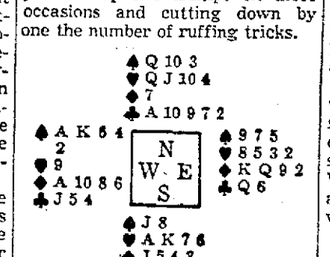
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE THEM SEPARATELY

It is important to be able to recognize when a declarer must use his trumps separately for ruffing, instead of using two on a trick to draw out those held by the defenders. To count up a hand with extensive ruffing possibilities, you first add up the number of tricks available with high cards in the side suits and then pile onto that the number of trumps which can be employed one at a time. Always bear in mind that the defenders, if they sense your plan and are on their toes, may lead a trump at you whenever they can, thus making you use up two trumps on those occasions and cutting down by one the number of ruffing tricks.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

At one table that contract got made because of logical play by the declarer and a single defensive slip by the defenders. West opened the spade K and, seeing the ruffing situation, switched to his lone heart. South took this with the A and, wishing to set up the spade Q for a club discard, led the spade J. West came in with the A and led the club 4 to the K. The A followed, then the spade Q for discard of the last club, and a ruff of the club 7 with the heart 6.

Now the defenders made their slip. When the diamond J was led, West feared the old gag of such a lead from a K-Q-J combination and came with his A. Having no trump to return, he led a diamond for a ruff by the heart 10. Then the club 10 was ruffed by the heart 7, the diamond 4 by the heart J, the club 9 by the heart K and the diamond 4 by the heart Q. East winced each time he had to under-ruff, as, if his partner had played low when the diamond J was led, he could have won the trick and returned a trump, compelling the declarer to use two and beating the contract.

At another table South, after winning the trump lead to the second trick, also tried one round of trumps himself. When he shortly thereafter led a diamond, West let East win it and return another trump. There the contract was downed two tricks.

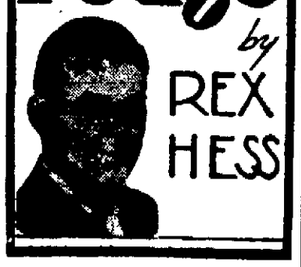
Sport Podge

by REX HESS



Possum Run golfers will be saying goodbye this weekend to Irish McGee, operator of the course for the past five years, and Mansfield resident for 12 years.

Recently signed up for service in the procurement division of the U. S. Army, Irish has been ordered to report at Cleveland next Tuesday morning.

McGee doesn't expect to don an army uniform. In his new job he'll be testing and inspecting army production in industrial plants.

And how will Possum Run operate without Irish?

"Same as usual," says McGee. "Billie (that's Mrs. Irish) will operate the course, and Maurice Byrnes will take charge of the club tournament, and everything will go right along the same as always.

"And I hope I'll be located close enough to Mansfield to get home on week-ends."

Qualifying round for the Possum tournament ends today, pairings will be made tonight, and the boys can swing into action in match play tomorrow.

Chuck Byers of last year's Mansfield Braves' pitching staff, now chucking for Charleston in the Mid-Atlantic, was put to bed with dizzy spells on July 26, so the Sporting News informs us, but returned the next night to blank Canton 9-0 on three hits..

I find it difficult to express surprise at this item. The Chucker was always at his best when he felt his worst. His best games for Mansfield were hurled after he complained of a sore arm, an upset stomach, or a sore back.

And I'm only waiting for the day when they yank him out of a hospital to pitch a no-hit game.

Lefty Bob Irish Kuzava had 15 victories and two defeats on his record last week before running into a 1-0 defeat in 13 innings, and a 2-1 loss. His earned run mark now stands at 1.28 per game, and he's southpawed his way to five shutouts.

Bob's Charleston teammate, Don Bayliss, with Findlay last year, pitched five and six-hit shutouts last week, and raised his record to 13 wins and seven defeats, while, after 181 innings of mound work, his earned run record hit the sensational mark of 1.14 for each nine frames.

You'll have to admit that I musthave
Heck of a time rhyming that name, Kuzava.

Steve Gromek, former Mansfield Brave sent down to the International league recently by the Cleveland Indians, won two games for Baltimore last week, but he was lucky in the first one as the Orioles scored seven runs in the eighth to edge Rochester 9-8. Robertson, pinch-hitting for Gromek, got two hits in that inning. Steve's other win was a 7-3 decision over Rochester.

Hank Edwards, another ex-Brave, ex-Cleveland Indian with Baltimore, was the goat in spoiling Hurler Burkart's no-hit effort against Rochester. The only safe blow was a double on a short fly that Edwards misjudged and played badly. But Hank has started to hit, and now boasts a .275 average.

Wayne Blackburn, former Mansfield Westinghouse star, continues to punch out his hits for Indianapolis, and now has a batting average of .318.

DON HUTSON SIGNS WITH PACKERS AGAIN

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(INS)—Don Hutson, voted most valuable player in the national professional football league in 1941, today assured Green Bay Packers football officials that he will be in the lineup come fall.

He has returned his signed contract to Green Bay headquarters and has announced his intentions of being on hand for the opening of drills Monday.

COACH RESIGNS

EAST LIVERPOOL — (U.P.) — Joe Morbito, East Liverpool high school football coach for seven years, resigned today to become a mechanical drawing instructor at Youngstown Rayen high school. Morbito said he would not coach at Rayen.

Dodgers Tripped By Braves

National League Race May Still Tighten Up.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Twenty-four hours ago an 11-day stand against the Braves and Phils—softest opposition the National league has to offer for the Dodgers—looked like a possible cushion against a probable Brooklyn slump but the picture was not so pleasant today.

When the National league title-holders embarked on their first junket west last April, they had a three-game lead, mainly resulting from four straight from the Braves and five of seven from the Phils. Three straight over the Reds followed those successes and the Cards have been unable to overcome that spurt.

The Cards have fortified themselves against total collapse in face of a Brooklyn runaway with the prospect of a long overdue Dodgers' slump but the case seemed hopeless for St. Louis when the Durochermen opened an eight-game home stand with the Braves at Ebbets field last night. The Phils follow the Braves for three games.

All Brooklyn has to do is win eight out of 11, and they can play .500 ball and still finish with 100 wins, ordinarily enough to win the flag.

It may not be so easy at that, though, for the Braves sprang a surprise in an 11-inning thriller in their Ebbets field opener by taking a 2-1 decision from the pacesetters. The Braves had to beat the clock as well as Brooklyn, having scored the winning run in their half of the 11th, and had less than five minutes to go before the OCD dimout rule went into effect.

The triumph rewarded a brilliantly-pitched game for Al Javery who spread 10 hits so well that 13 Dodgers were stranded on the bases. It was Javery's eighth win.

The winning run came with two out in the 11th when Nanny Fernandez tripled and scored on Pee Wee Reese's fumble of Max West's grounder. The Braves scored their first run in the second on singles by West and Ernie Lombardi and Eddie Miller's fly. The Dodgers tied the score in the eighth.

Pittsburgh kept Brooklyn's 9½ game lead intact, walloping the runner-up Cardinals, 13-6, with an eight-run second inning. The Bucs broke out with seven hits during the big frame and drove Max Lanier to the showers. Bob Elliott and Vince DiMaggio each made two hits during the wild inning.

Elliott, Wasdell and Pete Coscarart each made three of the Pirates' 16 hits. It was the Bucs' fifth straight win.

The Phils drove aged Carl Hubbell to cover in the ninth but failed to rob him of his sixth straight victory and the Giants took a 6-4 triumph.

A scratch hit by Mike Chartak in the eighth permitted Vern Stephens to score from second and give the Browns a 3-2 victory over the Tigers.

Boston at Washington, Cleveland at Chicago and Chicago at Cincinnati were postponed.

Florence Adams took medal honors with an 87, and Vera Oberlander was next with 90.

College All-Stars Get First Drills

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP)—George Halas moved his Chicago Bears to Delafield, Wis., to day while Bob Zuppke and his assistants ordered the first practice session for the College All-Star football squad.

The Collegians, selected in a nation-wide poll, will meet the Bears in Soldier field Aug. 28. It will be the ninth game between a National league pro champion and an all-star college group. During the span, the pros have won four and lost two. Two games have ended in ties.

* * *

Zuppke, who completed 29 years of coaching at the University of Illinois last fall, scheduled the opening of organized practice for his all-stars in the afternoon.

PROVIDENTS PLAY CLEVELAND CLUB

Mansfield Provident Loan girls, state softball champions, meet the stronger Ranger A. C. team of Cleveland at North Lake park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Rangers are rated on a par with the Cleveland Koch Furnitures who recently took a doubleheader from the Providents at North Lake.

Gets $250 for Winning Title

Mexican Takes Bantam Crown From Lou Salica.

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Swarthy little Manuel Ortiz of El Centro, Cal., was the new bantamweight champion of the world today but was only $250 richer for having whizzed through 12 rounds for an unanimous decision over Lou Salica last night.

The wiry little Mexican accepted the bout for only a $250 fee, so certain was he that the title would go with it. Salica received $6,500.

Ortiz was as busy in the ring last night as he is in his business as rancher, trucker, owner and operator of a pool room and owner and manager of a baseball team in his home town.

Twenty seconds after the first round opened, the Mexican, who became the first of his countrymen to win an undisputed boxing title, pulled out of a clinch with the New Yorker with a wide cut over his left eye pouring blood.

As the crowd of 6,500 anxiously watched Referee Abe Roth to see if he would halt the fight, Ortiz tore into Salica, and went on to win 11 of the 12 rounds, according to Roth's scoresheet.

From the second round the pattern of the fight was set. The new champ crowded constantly into the 29-year-old Salica who repeatedly tied him up in tight clinches.

* * *

Ortiz weighed 116¼. Salica 117. The official gate was $17,298 of which $10,000 goes to Service Sports, Inc., an organization which will stage fights and buy boxing equipment for service camps in Southern California.

Wood, Guldahl Tie for First

Lead Canadian Open Golfers In Last Round.

TORONTO —(U.P.)— Ralph Guldahl, Craig Wood and Ben Hogan led a field of 60 survivors into the final 36 holes of the Canadian open golf championship over the Mississauga course today, with little favoritism among the trio.

Guldahl and Wood, who tied for second place in Thursday's opening round, each turned in a 69 yesterday and tied for the top spot with 36-hole totals of 135.

Hogan, in marked contrast to his record-breaking 65 on the first day, shot only a one-under-par 71 on the second 18 holes for a 36-hole total of 136. He went out in 37 and came in in 34 and almost missed bettering par.

* * *

Gordon Bryson, home club professional, topped the Canadians at the half-way mark. His 69 gave him 140 and sole possession of fifth place. In fourth was an amateur, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., the best round of the day—a 67—gave him a total of 138.

ALSAB SCHEDULED FOR TRACK RETURN

CHICAGO —(INS)— Alsab, kept from the races for months by a blind splint and lack of training, was scheduled to return to competition today in the $2,500 Hinsdale Handicap at Washington park.

The three-year-old colt was eligible also for the richer $7,500 Sheridan Handicap at a mile and an eighth, but Trainer Sarge Swenke picked the six-furlong event as a better tune-up test to start his campaign for the American derby at Washington park Aug. 29.

Ya Shouldn't Have Done It, Bill, Old Boy

Billy Werber, third baseman of the Giants, is quite the hot stuff on the base paths, but in this case he's out by plenty. Peewee Reese of the Dodgers is waiting for Bill. Action is from New York game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Although most of last year's young big league players are in the service, Madison Square Garden is definitely counting on having pro hockey this winter. . . . Hasn't been explained yet how teams will be rounded up, except that there will be plenty of 18 and 19 year old Canadian boys in the lineups. . . . Anyway, the boys who make the arrangements have been given the go-ahead signal. . . . And what goes for the Garden probably goes for the other National league cities. . . . The "Ice-Capades" open here Sept. 4—earliest on record—and the Roller Skating Vanities start in Chicago Sept. 9 for a tour to the west coast. . . . One reason for those fancy scores in the Canadian open is that practically all the U. S. pros are playing the small-small-sized ball, illegal here.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Jack Charvat, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune: "Wire reports show that betting at Saratoga race track fell off more than 250,000 during the first six days of the current meeting. Track officials blame the lack of sucker play on bad weather and restricted traveling, but some New Yorkers claim 'folks are just getting smart.'"

GRIDIRON GRAPEVINE

The army plebes should have a few kicks coming this year. . . . Wayne Brown, who was an all-state back in Minnesota at 16 and headed for you-know-where, came east to Ansonia, Conn., a while back for ten days of tutoring from Rev. Arnold Fenton, the "punting parson." . . . Dr. Fenton tipped off Earl Blaik and now Wayne is a West Pointer. . . . U. of Washington fans say watch for Fred Provo, soph halfback, who is as hard to corner as a greased rabbit. . . . After giving out with the usual quota of sobs, North Carolina's dope sheet tells something about the navy preflight school team and concludes: "The entire picture adds up to the fact that this fall chapel hill should be the football center of the south."

Gordon Regains Batting Lead

Reiser Paces National For 9th Straight Week.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Second-baseman Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees regained the American league hitting lead this week, boosting his average seven points to oust Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, official averages revealed today.

Gordon, who led the league for three consecutive weeks earlier in the season, had an average of .343. Williams fell from .350 to .341. The figures are based on games played through Thursday.

Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers led the National league batsmen for the ninth straight week with an average of .343. Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves dropped seven points but remained in the second place slot with .333.

Rookie Hank Borowy of the Yankees maintained his lead over the American league pitchers with 10 victories and one defeat while his team mate, Spud Chandler, held second place with 12 wins and two setbacks.

Veteran Larry French of the Dodgers still paces the National league moundsmen with 11 triumphs against one loss.

It was a bad day for Maple Lake juniors who were defeated 4-1 by Empire and swamped 18 to 3 by Johns Park.

Johns Park also turned in a 7-1 victory over Empire, and Brinkerhoff walloped the Y. M. C. A. Pros 15-9.

REACH FINALS OF JUNIOR NET JOUST

CULVER, Ind—(U.P.)—Tom Falkenburg, older of the Hollywood brothers was scheduled to meet top-seeded Budge Patty, Los Angeles, today in the finals of the national junior tennis tournament.

Tom Falkenburg upset his younger brother, Bob, in a semi-final match yesterday, 9-7, 8-6.

Patty encountered little difficulty in disposing of Arthur MacDonald, San Gabriel, Cal., 6-3, 6-2.

LARGE PARTY JOINS WASHINGTON REDSKINS

CHICAGO—(INS)—Members of the Washington Redskins football team, enroute today to their San Diego, Cal., training camp, were joined by a large party in Chicago.

The "large party" was in the person of Milburn (Tiny) Croft, 305-pound tackle from Ripon College, Wis., described as the heftiest rookie ever signed in the National Professional football league.

Nakama Breaks World Record

Ohio State Hawaiian Swims Mile In 20:39.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—(U.P.)—With one new world record and another American standard already broken, the National AAU men's outdoor swimming and diving championships entered the second day of competition today at Ocean park's Olympic pool.

Kyoshi Nakama, the Hawaiian long distance swimming sensation performing under the colors of Ohio State, set the new world mark of 20 minutes and 39 second for the mile, bettering the accepted standard of 20:57.8 set by Jack Medica of Chicago in 1934.

Nakama's teammate, Jack Ryan of Pawtucket, R. I., finished second and Danny Green of Texas A. & M., was third.

Bill Smith, Ohio State's sprint star, also from Maui, Hawaii, set an American record of two minutes, 7-7-10 seconds in the 220 yard freestyle event. Smith bested Alan Ford, Yale freshman, in bettering the standard held by Otto Jaretz of the Chicago Tower's team.

Jaretz set his mark in 1940 at Santa Barbara, Calif., doing the distance in 2:13 1-10. The world's record of two minutes, 9 4-10 seconds is held by Jack Medica of Chicago whose mile mark Nakama shattered.

Michael Priano of New York, finished third and Jerry Kershner of Columbus, O., fourth.

Sammy Lee of Los Angeles, won the three-meter diving event over a strong field which included Miller Anderson of Chicago. Lee scored 155.84 points with Anderson's 142.97 second. Next was Frank Dempsey of Ohio State, with 142.94.

Indians Play Great Lakes

Meet White Sox Sunday. In Double Header.

CHICAGO — (INS) — With all pitchers rested up after a layoff since Wednesday, the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians meet in a double-header tomorrow, while the Indians play an exhibition game today with the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Open dates and threatening weather have prevented the Indians from playing since last Wednesday night's win over the St. Louis Browns.

Last night's postponed game will be played Monday night as Monday is an open date in the American league.

Lou Boudreau probably will start Jim Bagby in one of the Sunday contests and Al Smith or Chubby Dean in the other. The Tribe very likely will face Thornton Lee and Johnny Humphries.

Birds Strengthen Association Lead

(By Associated Press)

Having now feathered their nest atop the American Association standings, the Columbus Red Birds have set about protecting it.

They further humiliated the Milwaukee Brewers last night with a 4 to 3 victory, while the Toledo Mud Hens were batting down the Blues, 8 to 0.

This left Columbus with a .548 percentage; Kansas City with .538, and Milwaukee and Minneapolis locked at .517.

Harry Brecheen weathered a 10-hit attack to get his 15th victory of the season for Columbus.

Minneapolis downed Louisville, 3 to 2 in the opener of a doubleheader. The second game was called because of the weather.

Veteran Clay Smith twirled St. Paul to a 5-3 victory over Indianapolis, but the Indians sewed up the nightcap, 8 to 6.

DEFENDING CHAMPS MEET SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — Cincinnati's defending champions meet Springfield today for the state American Legion junior baseball title.

Springfield defeated Columbus 4 to 3 in a 12-inning game yesterday to advance to the championship round. The winner will represent Ohio in the sectional meet at Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 15 and 16

Irish Grid Ducat Sale Soaring

Advance Orders Reported 100 Per Cent Increased.

By RODGER NELSON

COLUMBUS—(INS)—That sports-loving Americans go defiantly on enjoying the things that the Allies are fighting to protect is the conclusion one would draw from a glance at the attendance pictures of the midwestern sports panorama.

Two of the best attendance barometers for football are Notre Dame and Ohio State and advance football ticket sales tend to indicate that game figures will suffer only slightly—if at all.

Herbert E. Jones, business manager at the South Bend Institute, reports that advance tickets sales to see the Fightin' Irish this fall are 100 per cent ahead of last year's for this season's home schedule of five games.

* * *

The perennial crowd-gatherer, Army at New York, is playing second fiddle this year to the Michigan game at South Bend Nov. 14, as Notre Dame followers are having a merry scramble for choice locations.

Notre Dame is facing an 11-game schedule and with the early response for ducats, it looks like the Irish will be among the No. 1 drawing cards of the nation.

Wisconsin will provide the first opposition for Frank Leahy's charges at Madison, Sept. 26. Season finale, which should have the crowd hanging on the rafters is docketed for Chicago against Great Lakes.

The story at the Buckeye school is a different one—but promising.

Ticket-czar Henry Taylor reported last week that the advance sale was 20 per cent below last year's mark but a batch of requests this week that practically engulfed the office skyrocketed the figure back up to normal.

A 10-game schedule confronts Ohio State this fall, seven of the contests to be played in Ohio stadium, another in Cleveland's Municipal stadium and the other two on foreign soil. Opener for the Bucks is on Sept. 26 when a contingent from Fort Knox invades the huge horseshoe in Columbus.

Among the highlight teams that the stadium will play host to this year are Southern California and Michigan. Last year the Trojans were subjected to a 33-0 lacing at the hands of Paul Brown's untried warriors and the Wolves were held to that never-to-be-forgotten 20-20 deadlock.

CHARLESTON WINS OVER CANTON CLUB

DAYTON—(AP)—Dayton defeated Erie 2 to 1 last night to move within four games of first-place Charleston after 14 wins in 19 starts. Erie, once holder of first place, dropped to seven games behind the leader, but still was three games ahead of fourth-place Canton.

The second game of the scheduled Dayton-Erie doubleheader was postponed. Charleston defeated Canton 13 to 3, while Springfield won both games of a doubleheader from Zanesville by identical 2 to 1 counts.

Because all members of the pike family and black bass possess a pugnacious character, a plug that hits the water with a splash seems to excite their baitling instincts. A fly, however, should be cast delicately and silently, as the natural insect it imitates, drops upon the water without disturbance.

PAM—Sabotage Case. By A. W. Brewerton

I'LL HAVE TO GO INTO DETAIL ON THIS THING, PAM, TO GIVE YOU A CLEAR IDEA OF THE SITUATION. IT'S A SABOTAGE CASE AT A LARGE CONCERN, THE BRONNER—WILSON COMPANY, MAKING PARTS FOR PLANES
8-8
ALREADY, THE DAMAGE DONE TO MACHINERY IN THEIR PLANT HAS SLOWED PRODUCTION AND SERIOUSLY CRIPPLED SEVERAL LARGE PLANE ASSEMBLY PLANTS DEPENDENT ON THE BRONNER COMPANY FOR PARTS.
SO FAR, WE HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO FIND OUT HOW THE SABOTEURS HAVE DONE THEIR WORK, BUT A BITTER DISAGREEMENT HAS ARISEN BETWEEN THE CHIEF FOREMAN OF THE SHOPS AND ONE OF THE OWNER-PARTNERS, JOHN BRONNER
THIS BRONNER IS A GERMAN-BORN, NATURALIZED CITIZEN, HAS OFTEN PROVED HIS LOYALTY TO THIS COUNTRY. HIS PARTNER, WILSON, HAS CONFIDENCE IN HIM! ALSO, THE FOREMAN HAS BEEN TRUSTWORTHY FOR YEARS

KILL SEA LIONS

MONTEREY, Cal.—(U.P.)— Legal killing of a huge herd of sea lions which congregated in Monterey bay has begun and experiments on use of the animals are to be conducted.

With fish and game commission approval, army, navy, fish and game, and cannery personnel are shooting the lions.

K. Hovden, owner of a cannery here, has agreed to render carcases for oil and fertilizer. The canner felt that possibly a fair trade of leather might be made from the hides.

NARROW PRICE MOVES CLOUD STOCK TREND

Oil Stock Declines 926,000 Barrels at End of First Week In August.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Narrowly mixed price movements ruled in today's stock market proceedings.

Up a shade were Standard Oil (NJ), Montgomery Ward, American Can, Continental Can, National Distillers and American Airlines. Fractional declines were recorded for United Aircraft, Santa Fe, American Telephone, Sears, Roebuck, Goodrich and Southern Railway.

Holders of oils noted the compilation of the Bureau of Mines disclosing stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum at the end of the week of Aug. 1 totalled 248,336,000 barrels, a decrease of 926,000.

Attention was given the announcement of the American Iron & Steel Institute that steel-making capacity of the United States rose 628,350 net tons in the first half of 1942 through the construction of new furnaces and the enlargement of others. This lifted the annual aggregate to 89,198,320 net tons, equivalent to about 50 per cent of the entire steel capacity of the world.

been interviewed by Dombey's staff which is seeking, electricians, riggers, tractor and steam shovel operators and other skilled men.

The applications will be examined at the Cleveland office, according to Cox, and several Mansfield men may be called for construction duty.

Cox said that Jesse A. Williams, jr., of 978 Park avenue west, and Frank J. Dotterman, Woodville road, were enlisted yesterday. Williams and Dotterman applied at the mobile recruiting cruiser of the special staff which had headquarters at Central park but were sent to Cox at the postoffice to enlist for regular duty.

Other men were interviewed at the mobile unit and their applications were filed. Men wishing to join construction battalions may obtain information from the recruiting station at the postoffice, according to Cox. Physical requirements have been relaxed for skilled tradesmen.

Cox also reported that the recruiting station at the postoffice will be closed all day Monday because his staff has been called to Cleveland to receive new recruiting instructions from Lieutenant Dombey. Recruiting will resume Tuesday at 8 a. m.

RUSSIANS SET TO DEMOLISH MAIKOP FIELDS

Germans Break Through Lines At Armavir Close In On Southern Oil Area.

edged that the Red armies, with their back to he Caucasus mountains, were in a grave position and that the Russians including Don and Kuban Cossacks still battling around Kushchevka might not be able to escape eastward.

Simultaneous with the drive on Maikop it was believed that the Germans would strike out to the southeast, following along the main railroad paralleling the Caucasus foothills.

They probably will attempt to reach the Prokhladnenski railroad junction about 165 miles southeast of Armavir and 40 miles southeast of Georgievsk where the line branches down to Ordjonikidze and southeast of the Caspian port of Makhach Kala.

On the Germans' northern flank south of Voronezh on the Don to the northwest of Stalingrad Russian forces were said in mid-day dispatches to have encircled several communities on the west bank of the Don and enlarged their bridgeheads in the face of three strong Nazi counterattalks.

For the moment, Russian tanks had checked the southern claw of a German pincers driving up the Stalingrad-Caucasus railroad from the Kotelnikovski sector 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, but the Germans, oblivious to frightful losses, were smashing at the Red army lines with ever-increasing power.

A special dispatch to the official army newspaper Red Star left no doubt that the situation in the entire north Caucasus was most critical, though the Russians were reorganizing for a determined frontal stand in the foothills of the Caucasus.

Red Star's dispatch said that a Russian division fighting under most unfavorable conditions first repelled superior enemy motorized forces in the Armavir area, but that the Germans threw in reinforcements of sub-machine gunners who wedged into the defense lines and forced a withdrawal.

Then the Germans broke through in another Armavir sector and held their ground against counter-attacks, the dispatch said.

South of Kushchevka, the Germans were driving with all their power to overwhelm and wipe out the big force of Cossacks who had held them back for days.

North of Kotelnikovo where the Germans drove for the Volga and Stalingrad, the Russians had been forced to give ground.

The noon communique and special dispatches agreed that the Russians were still holding firm at the north bend of the Don river where the northern German pincers claw was aimed at Stalingrad, 70 miles to the southeast.

Special dispatches reported that at Kletskaya, where the Russian resistance had entered its third week, all enemy attempts to reach the Don and envelop Stalingrad from the north had failed.

Grave reverses had thrown the Russian line back 80 miles in the north Caucasus to the Armavir railroad and pipe line junction, only 60 miles from the Maikop oil fields.

A German break-through at the southern end of a pincers movement aimed at Stalingrad on the Volga had put the enemy somewhere north of Kotelnikovski and within less than 95 miles of Stalingrad.

Further, by their rapid advance southward through the north Caucasus, the Germans had threatened to envelop and overwhelm the entire big Russian forces south of Kushchevska, in the area along the Sea of Azov coast.

Declares Russo-Jap Peace To Stand

LONDON —(INS)— A Japanese military spokesman declared today that peace between Russia and Japan will be maintained as long as the U. S. S. R. "adheres strictly to the Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact."

His statement obviously was made in connection with growing Allied suspicions that Nippon is planning a new act of treachery in the form of an unannounced attack against Russia.

The spokesman's declaration was made in a broadcast from Tokyo recorded by Reuter's (British) news agency.

He emphasized at the same time the importance of Japan's strong defenses in the north.

Reds Recognize Old Czech Borders

LONDON—(AP)—Eduard Benes, president of the provisional government of Czechoslovakia in London, said in a broadcast today that Russia had officially recognized Czechoslovakia's pre-Munich frontiers.

The Czech president said he talked with Vyacheslav Molotov, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, in London on June 9 and quoted him as saying:

"The Soviet government never at any time had anything to do with Munich, was against the policy which led to Munich and therefore does not recognize anything which took place there in relation to Czechoslovakia."

British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden announced recently that Britain considered the Munich agreement ended. Under the agreement reached in September, 1938, Czechoslovakia was forced to hand over to Germany the Sudetenland.

guilty and that they be given the death sentence by electrocution.

"However, there was a unanimous recommendation by the commission, concurred in by the attorney general and the judge advocate general of the army, that the sentence of two of the prisoners be commuted to life imprisonment because of their assistance to the government of the United States in the apprehension and conviction of the others.

"The commutation directed by the president in the case of Burger was to confinement at hard labor for life. In the case of Dasch, the sentence was commuted by the president to confinement at hard labor for thirty years.

"The electroctuions begin at noon today.

"Six of the prisoners were electrocuted. The other two confined to prison.

"The record in all eight cases will be sealed until the end of the war."

Shortly before 8 a. m. (EWT), correspondents in the jail were asked to make no telephone calls outside after that hour. However, calls from the outside continued to be put through to the inside.

Mr. Roosevelt had disclosed Tuesday that he expected to spend at least two or three days reviewing the evidence and findings of the military trial commisssion. He is the sole reviewing authority who will pass on the commission's findings.

Throughout the week, rumors have been circulated that the men, if found guilty, might be executed before formal announcement of their sentencing was given.

Shortly before 8 a. m., Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, provost marshal of the military district of Washington in whose custody the men have been placed, arrived at the jail with about 12 army officers.

The execution area in the jail was brushed and aired out yesterday, although a high official said that this was done on the possibility that the men would be ordered put to death in the electric chair and not on any suggestion from the military authorities who have custody of the prisoners.

CHAPTER XXIII

Morley opened the library door and called out. "Audrey, are you there? Come in here a moment, my dear."

Gordon frowned. Somewhere along the route of this game of hide and seek, bluff and sneer, Morley had stumbled on something good that Gordon did not understand. What was it? His mind groped indefinitely in space.

Just as he struck a thought, Audrey came into the room. She looked much upset. Her hair was tousled, as though she had twisted it in despair. She glanced from one man to the other. Both men stood near the fireplace; Morley leaned against the mantel, looking extremely well pleased.

"Your new husband has sold you to me, my love. You will get your divorce from him after you own my gold mine."

"Don't be absurd. Your gold mine? I don't want it! What on earth would I do with it?"

"We can figure that out later. My gift to you is merely a symbol of my honest intention. Blake has an idea that I am a fortune hunter and also that we love each other only lightly. We must show him that he's entirely wrong." Morley took her hand and kissed it, "And so with all my wealth I thee endow! As with all your love you me, enrich!"

"I've heard enough of this crazy prattle, I'm going," Gordon exclaimed, infuriated and jealous of them so close to each other.

"Be around the day after tomorrow, Blake, and witness the deed signed and delivered to Audrey." Morley opened the library door for Gordon.

"Is it true what Clifford says? If he gives me his mine I can get a divorce from you?" Audrey asked Gordon.

"If you accept it, yes."

"I'll take the mine, Clifford." Audrey turned away from Gordon. Her voice was cold and clear.

"You were expensive, my pet. He was a good salesman, wasn't he?" said Morley.

"I never thought so . . . I think he's been as stupid as ever."

Gordon was stung. "I don't like stopping in here the day after tomorrow to see the deed delivered. I'll stay right here as your guest instead if I'm not crowding your hospitality."

"But you are!" Morley snapped. "It's preposterous! You get out of here."

"There's no reason why he shouldn't if he wishes. Let him stay please, Clifford," said Audrey, "I prefer we behave like three civilized people."

Gordon sat on the blue chenille spread of his guest-room bed. The butler told him to ring if there was anything he might want, then quietly withdrew.

"Out of the frying pan and right into the fire," thought Gordon to himself, "sort of a Trojan Horse inside the enemy's fort. Two husbands and one wife. One husband too many. Which of us is it?"

He lay in bed, concentrating on the situation. What was the reason for Morley's sudden generosity? Slowly Gordon began to see through his chicanery. That wily individual would give Audrey a gold mine, loaded with debts. "A rich new owner," thought Gordon, "might appease the creditors until the debts were paid off by Audrey."

He realized that Audrey was accepting a sick horse, and knew that once she became owner of the mine, and open to Morley's suggestions she would keep on looking for that rich vein, "soft and rich as pumpkin pie." That was Morley's dream. That knowledge came to him slowly and insidiously throughout the night, and jealousy gnawed him.

But he knew it was important for him to remain in the renovated mansion, to be near Audrey, to get the chance to tell her all that he had discovered about Morley. That was more important than this stupid gift of a gold mine. He was determined now that Audrey must know that he suspected Morley of being a murderer. Her idol was built of poisoned clay! If only he had the power to convince Audrey that the only greatness Morley possessed was in her imagination.

In the night as he listened, he heard the old mansion awaken, as if a subtle electric current had been sent through its beams. It stirred. It was alive again, coming out of a long sleep that had begun when the bronze casket of Laurie Iverson was carried out to the hearse waiting on the gravel drive and taken to the Denver cemetery. The old house seemed to ruminate, maliciously whispering to itself of what it had seen—love—tragedy—death.

Morley in his room felt it too, heard the mountain wind sigh outside, heard his shutter click against its clasp, making a sound like a tapping finger. He was gazing out into the blackness, brooding. Before him on his desk was an open metal box and papers, clippings and letters lay alongside the deed of the Double Jackpot.

His hatred for Gordon was fierce now, and troublous, yet mixed with his hate was the canny knowledge that if it hadn't been for Gordon, he could not have been given the chance to pawn off a debt-ridden mine to Audrey and get her involved in it again. Love her? As though he could care deeply for a silly little fool! Morley licked his lips when he thought that once rid of Gordon, Audrey would marry him and then he would get the Double Jackpot pumping and drilling full speed once again.

Table stakes was his game, winner take all, and since he was never a percentage gambler, he thought pleasantly of getting all. With that thought warming him, he put out the light and went to bed.

The cold mountain wind, after whispering to Gordon, and clicking the shutter on Morley's room, continued around to the west wing, where Audrey lay sleepless, listening to it. "Clifford" it seemed to say when it hissed through the pine needles in the trees near the house, and "Gordon" when it neared the lighted windows of her room.

She sat up straight in bed. She had been reading a slim volume of poems and had stopped to reread the one beginning:

Two loves have I;
And now is torn
This heart of mine
From moonset to morn.

BUT COULD YOU MAKE THE SACRIFICES THEY HAVE TO MAKE? WHY, THEY CAN'T EVEN WEAR RED FINGERNAILS! THAT'S TOO MUCH FOR A GIRL OF YOUR INDEPENDENCE!
I NEED YOUR HELP

I'M IN FINE SHAPE, MUMSY

TILLIE, I COULD ALMOST SWEAR YOUR GRANDFATHER'S PICTURE WAS REPROACHING ME
WELL, TILLIE, IF YOUR GRANDPA COULD SEE YOU JOINING THE W.A.A.C., HE'D SURE BE PROUD OF YOU
I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE NOT OBJECTING, MUMSY
BUT, MUMSY, HOW ARE YOU GOING TO GET ALONG WITHOUT ME?
THERE'S A PICTURE OF YOUR GRANDMA, TILLIE - SHE GOT ALONG WITHOUT GRANDPA SOMEHOW
AND THERE'S YOUR GRANDPA AGAIN - WHAT WAR EXPERIENCES HE USED TO TELL ABOUT, AND HOW PROUD WE WERE OF HIM
8-6
WELL, I CAN TELL MY GRANDCHILDREN HOW I WAS A SOLDIER AND THAT'S MORE THAN GRANDMA COULD DO
FOR VICTORY BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS
I'M SO GLAD MUMSY IS RECONCILED TO MY JOINING THE W.A.A.C., BUT HOW WILL I EVER TELL MR. SIMPKINS?

BUT THIS IS WAR! - WE'VE GOT TO MAKE SACRIFICES
A SWELL SPEECH, MR. SIMPKINS
WE'VE GOT TO GET ALONG WITHOUT A LOT OF THINGS WE'VE BEEN USED TO YEP, AND ONE THING THE WAR WILL MAKE YOU DO WITHOUT, IS ME

I'VE MADE UP MY MIND TO JOIN THE W.A.A.C. MR. SIMPKINS, AND THERE'S NO CHANGING MY MIND

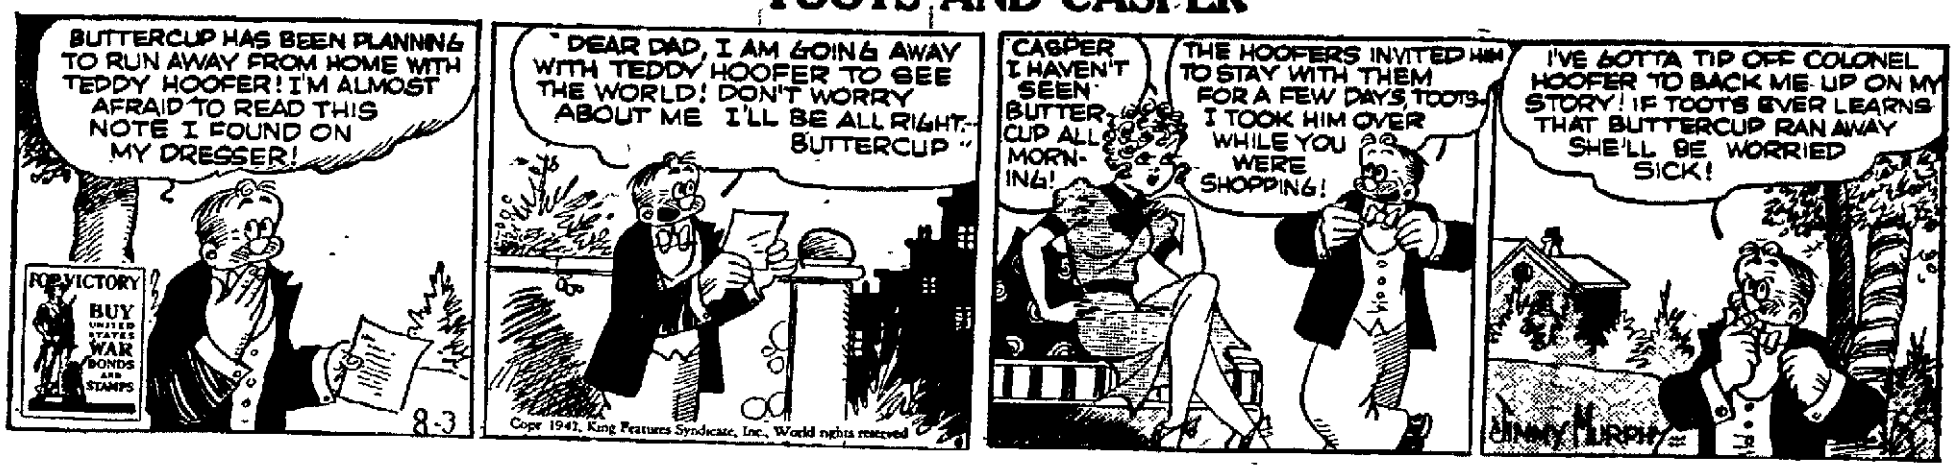
TOOTS AND CASPER



BUTTERCUP HAS BEEN PLANNING TO RUN AWAY FROM HOME WITH TEDDY HOOFER! I'M ALMOST AFRAID TO READ THIS NOTE I FOUND ON MY DRESSER!
FOR VICTORY BUY UNITED STATES WAR BONDS AND STAMPS
8-3
"DEAR DAD, I AM GOING AWAY WITH TEDDY HOOFER TO SEE THE WORLD! DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME I'LL BE ALL RIGHT.— BUTTERCUP"
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER I HAVEN'T SEEN BUTTERCUP ALL MORNING!
THE HOOFERS INVITED HIM TO STAY WITH THEM FOR A FEW DAYS, TOOTS— I TOOK HIM OVER WHILE YOU WERE SHOPPING!
I'VE GOTTA TIP OFF COLONEL HOOFER TO BACK ME UP ON MY STORY! IF TOOTS EVER LEARNS THAT BUTTERCUP RAN AWAY SHE'LL BE WORRIED SICK!
Jimmy Murphy

YES, CASPER, BUTTERCUP IS HAVING A FINE TIME AT MY HOUSE! HE AND TEDDY GET ALONG SWELL TOGETHER!
8-4
VERY GOOD, COLONEL HOOFER! NOW WE'LL GO OVER TO YOUR HOUSE AND I'LL GIVE SOPHIE THE SAME LINE!
I HOPE IT WORKS, CASPER!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved.
SOPHIE WOULD PASS OUT, IF SHE EVER LEARNS THAT TEDDY RAN AWAY FROM HOME! HE'S THE APPLE OF HER EYE!
JIMMY MURPHY

COLONEL HOOFER, I'M HERE TO TELL SOPHIE THAT TEDDY IS STAYING AT MY HOUSE.
I'VE TOLD HER ALREADY, CASPER! YOU GO IN AND BACK UP MY BLUFF!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER, IT'S AWFULLY NICE OF YOU AND TOOTS TO INVITE TEDDY TO SPEND A FEW DAYS WITH BUTTERCUP! I DO HOPE TEDDY ISN'T TOO MUCH TROUBLE!
HE'S NEVER ANY TROUBLE
NOW, IF WE CAN ONLY PREVENT SOPHIE AND TOOTS FROM GETTING TOGETHER, AND COMPARING NOTES.
YEAH, THAT'S THE PROBLEM! BUTTERCUP AND TEDDY OUGHTA BE HOME ANY MINUTE NOW!
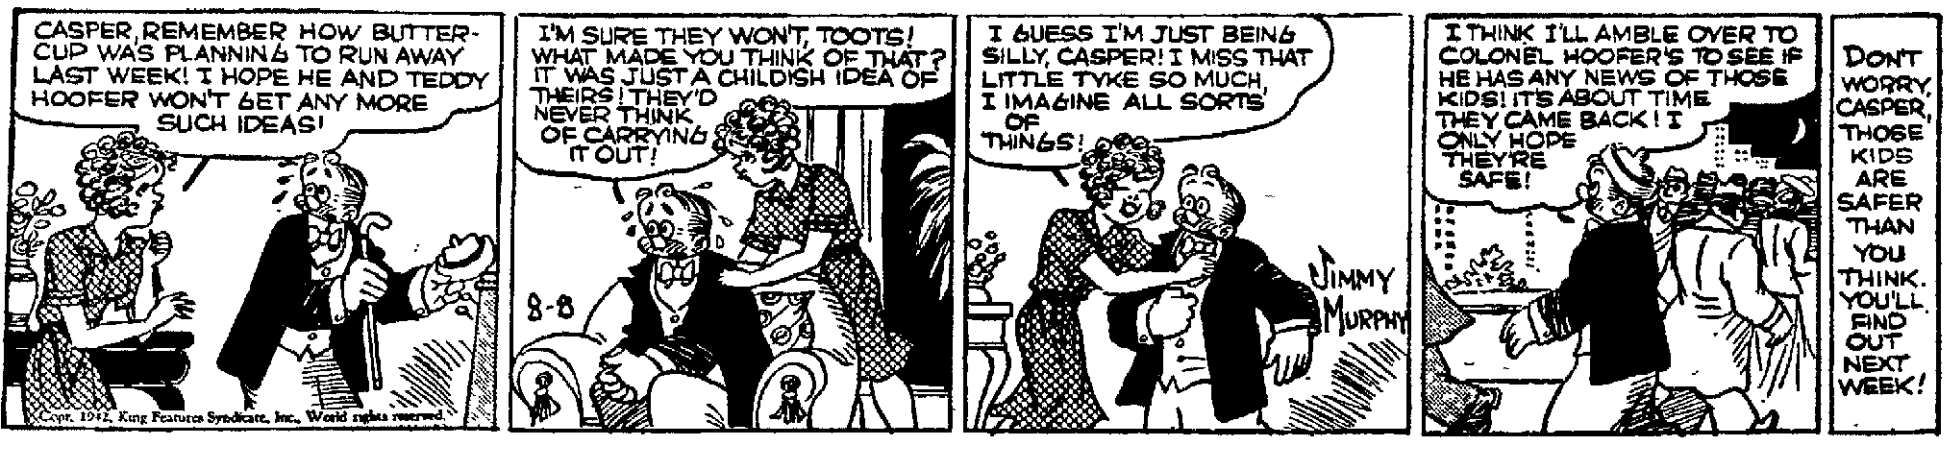
JIMMY MURPHY
CASPER, HOW MUCH LONGER IS BUTTERCUP GOING TO STAY AT THE HOOFERS'?
JUST A DAY OR TWO MORE, TOOTS.
I STOPPED IN TO SEE HIM ON THE WAY HOME! HE AND TEDDY HOOFER ARE HAVING THE TIME OF THEIR LIVES TOGETHER!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
DOESN'T HE WANT TO COME HOME?
OH, YES! BUT HE ALSO LIKES IT THERE WHERE HE CAN PLAY WITH TEDDY!
8-6
JIMMY MURPHY
I'M ANXIOUS TO SEE THE LITTLE RASCAL AGAIN, BUT AS LONG AS HE'S HAVING FUN THERE, I WON'T BE SELFISH AND MAKE HIM COME HOME!

POOR BUTTERCUP, I WONDER WHERE YOU ARE NOW AND WHAT HARDSHIPS YOU'RE ENDURING?
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER, LET'S CALL ON THE HOOFERS AND SEE BUTTERCUP!
NO, NOT YET, TOOTS...
8-7
HE'S HAVING FUN, SO LET'S LEAVE HIM ALONE! IT DOES A KID GOOD TO GET AWAY FROM HIS PARENTS ONCE IN A WHILE— DEVELOPS HIS SELF-RELIANCE!
WHAT I WAS TELLIN' TOOTS MAY BE TRUE, BUT I SURE WISH I HAD THE LITTLE SHAVER HERE WITH ME NOW! HIS DOLLAR MUST BE SPENT, SO HE OUGHTA SHOW UP SOON!
JIMMY MURPHY



CASPER, REMEMBER HOW BUTTERCUP WAS PLANNING TO RUN AWAY LAST WEEK! I HOPE HE AND TEDDY HOOFER WON'T GET ANY MORE SUCH IDEAS!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
I'M SURE THEY WON'T, TOOTS! WHAT MADE YOU THINK OF THAT? IT WAS JUST A CHILDISH IDEA OF THEIRS! THEY'D NEVER THINK OF CARRYING IT OUT!
8-8
I GUESS I'M JUST BEING SILLY, CASPER! I MISS THAT LITTLE TYKE SO MUCH, I IMAGINE ALL SORTS OF THINGS!
JIMMY MURPHY
I THINK I'LL AMBLE OVER TO COLONEL HOOFER'S TO SEE IF HE HAS ANY NEWS OF THOSE KIDS! IT'S ABOUT TIME THEY CAME BACK! I ONLY HOPE THEY'RE SAFE!
DON'T WORRY, CASPER, THOSE KIDS ARE SAFER THAN YOU THINK. YOU'LL FIND OUT NEXT WEEK!

SECRET AGENT X-9

PURSUED BY SAVANNAH AND A SOLDIER IN AN ARMY JEEP, PRINCE CAESAR'S CAR STALLS ON A RAILROAD TRACK AND IS DEMOLISHED BY A FREIGHT TRAIN...
YES, THOSE ARE TWO OF THE AXIS AGENTS — BUT WHERE IS PRINCE CAESAR?
I SEEN A GUY LIKE YOU DESCRIBE, HOPPIN' ABOARD THE PASSENGER TRAIN THAT WAS TAKING ON WATER WHEN WE CAME ALONG!
I'VE GOT TO BEAT THAT TRAIN TO WASHINGTON!
A HALF-HOUR LATER...
THANKS, SOLDIER! I'LL BE WAITING AT THE STATION FOR THAT RAT WHEN HIS TRAIN ROLLS IN!
MEANWHILE...AT THE HIDEOUT OF THE AXIS GANG...
SOME OF THOSE BIRDS HAVE TAKEN REFUGE IN THE HOUSE! BETTER USE TEAR GAS!
OKAY, X-9!
MEL GRAFF
WE'VE USED TEAR-GAS WITHOUT RESULTS, X-9! ARE YOU SURE THERE'S STILL SOMEONE IN THE HOUSE?
I'M SURE THEY'RE AROUND SOMEWHERE!
WE'LL RUSH THE PLACE WITH TOMMY-GUNS!
NO, I WOULDN'T ADVISE THAT!
WHY NOT?
NO TELLING WHAT KIND OF TRAP THOSE RATS HAVE L——
AT THIS INSTANT A TIME-BOMB BLASTS THE HOUSE FROM ITS FOUNDATION!
MEL GRAFF
WHEW! YOU WERE RIGHT, X-9! CAESAR'S HOUSE WAS MINED! BUT I DON'T UNDERSTAND..
WHAT?
...WHY, HIS MEN MUST HAVE BLOWN THEMSELVES TO BITS!
I DOUBT IT.
THAT'S WHAT THEY WANT US TO THINK! HM-M...COME OVER HERE, CAPTAIN!
AN OLD-FASHIONED WELL... LET'S HAVE A LOOK INSIDE!
MEL GRAFF
YOU THINK THIS OLD WELL COULD BE A SECRET EXIT FROM CAESAR'S HOUSE?
WE'LL SEE, IN A MINUTE, CAPTAIN!
STAND BACK. I'M GOING TO DROP THIS STONE IN!
NO SPLASH.
DRY AS A BONE!
THIS WOUND IN MY LEG IS KICKING UP... GET ME THAT SCARE-CROW IN THE FIELD OVER — THERE!
HUH? OH, SURE... I GET YOU!
MEL GRAFF
HERE'S THE SCARECROW YOU WANTED, X-9! YOU THINK THIS OLD WELL MIGHT BE A SECRET EXIT FOR CAESAR'S MEN, EH?
WE'LL FIND OUT SOON.
REMAINING OUT OF SIGHT, X-9 AND THE CAPTAIN HOLD THE SCARE-CROW OVER THE MOUTH OF THE WELL....
SUDDENLY, A BURST OF MACHINE-GUN FIRE ROARS UP FROM THE BLACKNESS OF THE WELL'S INTERIOR....
GREAT SCOTT!
THANKS FOR THE MISSIONARY WORK, RAG-TAG! ALL RIGHT, CAPTAIN — NOW'S THE TIME FOR TEAR-GAS!
HEY, MEN! BRING THE GAS-GUN!
MEL GRAFF
THAT TEAR GAS WILL SMOKE OUT THOSE AXIS RATS, X-9!
GOOD!
STOP! STOP! WE COME OUT!
AND A FEW MINUTES LATER...
NICE BUNCH OF CRY BABIES! OKAY, RATZIS... YOUR SABOT—TOURING DAYS ARE OVER! WE'VE GOT SOME NICE, STEEL PLAY PENS FOR ALL OF YOU!
THE ONLY FLY IN THE OINTMENT IS THAT PRINCE CAESAR GOT AWAY... I WONDER IF SAVANNAH WAS ABLE TO STAY ON HIS TRAIL...
